

Move to elect Pikarsky RTA head draws bitter reaction

Daley injects Chicago power politics into deadlock over chairman

RICHARD J. DALEY

by STEVE FORSYTH

A power play engineered by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is reaching into the suburbs in an effort to have CTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky named head of the Regional Transportation Authority. Daley's office reportedly is making phone calls to suburban mayors asking them to pressure suburban members of the RTA board into a quick decision on the chairman, theoretically resulting in selection of Pikarsky.

At least one suburban mayor, Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, has heard from Chicago Deputy Mayor Kenneth Sain with a pitch for Pikarsky. Behrel has supported Pikarsky and is considering cooperating with the city to get buses to Des Plaines. Behrel agreed he would probably support Pikarsky, but said he has also been contacted by Barney Cunningham, transportation consultant and former mayor of Park Forest, who also is interested in the post.

Pikarsky is attending a national transportation conference in New York, but he issued a statement Monday afternoon saying, "Who do they have as a candidate? As an experienced professional administrator in public transportation, I have no intention of withdrawing my name."

Richard Ogilvie would be a good compromise candidate. The four suburban board members are believed to prefer former American Airlines president George A. Warde. "It's obvious they're floating him (Ogilvie) as a trial balloon, as a compromise candidate, but that's not much better than Pikarsky," Totten said. He described the situation as political now, adding that he has talked with suburban RTA board members Joseph Tecson and D. Daniel Baldino about the deadlock.

Long Grove petition rips Miller annex

Long Grove residents presented petitions Monday night to the Buffalo Grove Village Board objecting to plans by Miller Builders Inc. to construct a 415-housing development. Petitions bearing the signatures of 123 residents who live near the Miller site were presented to the board. The board, however, tabled action on the matter until a court challenge to the annexation is settled.

Long Grove master plan, which calls for only one housing unit on two acres. Coffin also said the development would penetrate more than a mile into the village's sewer system. Referring to traffic increases that could result on Checker Road because of the development, he called the road "quite inadequate for that kind of traffic."

One week ahead of schedule

Work on flood-control project begins

A $300,000 flood-control project, delayed for more than a year, has begun in Buffalo Grove more than a week ahead of schedule. The program, which includes construction of a five-acre water retention basin at the Arlington Country Club, is expected to provide flood relief to residents and businesses along Dundee Road and the White Pine Ditch area.

When that stage is complete, workers will start excavating the pond, and pipe outlets. Bridges and an earthen dam then will be installed, he said. WORK IS BEING done by Lindahl Bros. of Bensenville, which was awarded a contract for the $332,000 project last August.

The village, the State of Illinois and Metropolitan Sanitary District are sharing project costs while the country club is supplying the land as part of an agreement among the four. Cost breakdowns show the village contributing a total of $82,000 to cover engineering, bridge installation and sewer expenses. The village also has agreed to maintain the pond.

The MSD is paying $120,000 and the state another $330,000, mostly toward construction. THE BASIN WILL have a 16-million-gallon capacity and will retain storm runoff during periods of severe weather while preventing overloads of nearby streams. The recently constructed sewers along Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads will drain water to the basin.

Buffalo Grove Road will be closed at Dundee Road in about two to three weeks while road improvements are being made on the north side of the intersection. Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said a date for improvements was still pending, but work crews will close down the entrance to northbound Buffalo Grove Road during widening of the intersection and installation of a median strip.

The entrance and about 600 feet of road in front of the Ranch Mart Shopping Center will be closed for about two weeks while the work is being done, Larson said. ALTHOUGH DUNDEE will remain open, Buffalo Grove Road traffic will be detoured during the period and motorists will have to use Golfview Terrace as an alternate route, said Larson.

The work is part of the overall Dundee Road widening project, which includes expansion of the road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53 through Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Arlington Heights. The construction, ongoing since 1972, will cost some $3 million. Project contractors and village officials estimate the Buffalo Grove portion of Dundee Road will be complete late next month.

Village officials were also waiting to hear, possibly this week, on final state approval from some $8,000 to $10,000 in savings on the Dundee median compromise to be used for landscaping part of the dividers. The savings stems from a recent agreement among village officials, business and community leaders on a design including sections of mountable and landscaped medians along the Buffalo Grove stretch of Dundee Road, some two miles.

The savings comes largely from the use of topsoil rather than asphalt on most of the divider, according to state officials. Larson said the two projects are an effective flood control measure and will keep village flooding in check. Two years ago, Buffalo Grove was plagued by floods causing an estimated $45,000 damage. "Major flooding problems will be corrected," Larson said.

OK of Rockefeller periled: Anderson

Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson said Monday night that the confirmation of vice president designate Nelson Rockefeller " . . . is suddenly in trouble," because of recent disclosures of gifts by the former New York governor to public officials and his brother's role in the financing of an unflattering biography of Arthur Goldberg, Rockefeller's opponent in the 1970 gubernatorial race. Anderson further speculated that if the Democrats sweep in the upcoming national elections, "they just might not confirm." However, the columnist said the confirmation had more likely been "postponed" rather than denied. Anderson spoke at the state conference of the Illinois Principals Assn. at the Arlington Park Towers hotel.

Official beats sidewalk policy

While 100 Arlington Heights families have until Oct. 25 to finance sidewalks around their houses, a village official has successfully avoided installing sidewalks by his home for 12 years. The official, Robert Bishop, is a member of the board of local improvements, which supervises assessments for streets, sewers and sidewalks. He was required to place a deposit with the village when his home was built to ensure completion of the walks but the village board later gave it back. "I will eventually put them in," said Bishop, noting the board is not enforcing its sidewalk policy in his neighborhood.

Woman welcomes Kiwanis move

Mary Clark, the woman whose membership in the Elk Grove Kiwanis is the subject of a dispute with Kiwanis International, welcomed Monday the local chapter's decision not to expel her.

"I think the Kiwanis of Elk Grove has distinguished itself by this action," said Miss Clark, who is the Elk Grove Village librarian. "I feel Kiwanis International is trying to diminish the strength of local clubs by not including women. The local group has said they feel they need women like me and I don't think the international can interpret the needs of the community."

Panel probes school finances

A committee of principals, teachers, citizens and school board members tonight will undertake an in-depth look at finances in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Committee chairman Albert Domanico said the panel would present a variety of "alternatives" to the school board for coping with anticipated reductions in state aid to Dist. 59. A combination of declining enrollment and low taxes will cause the state aid reduction.

Palatine police apply for grant

The Palatine Police Dept. has applied for a state grant to finance a village-wide crime prevention program. Police hope to get $20,000 to hire two officers, show films, and make presentations to help residents and businessmen fight such crimes as burglary and vandalism.

More burglary charges against 2

Schaumburg police added two more burglary charges against a pair of Des Plaines-area men suspected of committing about 18 burglaries in several Northwest suburbs. Charles N. Hardt, 20, and Robert L. Clark, 20, both of 9230 Noel Dr., Maine Township were each charged with two counts of burglary. Another man, James R. Nardi, 31, of Chicago, also had a possession of stolen property charge placed against him in connection with local burglaries.

Retried for murder after 2½ years

Ronald Helton goes back to court today, after a delay of more than 2½ years, to face charges in the stabbing murder of an Arlington Heights service station manager during a 1969 robbery. The charges against Helton, 21, were dropped in 1972 after a Circuit Court judge ruled inadmissible statements Helton made to police. The ruling was overturned in August, clearing the way for a new trial.

Flood-control project begins

A $500,000 flood control project on the grounds of Arlington Country Club in Buffalo Grove, is under way more than a week ahead of schedule. The project, delayed for more than a year, is a joint effort by the village, the state, the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the property owner. It will provide relief along Dundee Road and in the White Pine Ditch area.

C&NW reviews prairie decision

Officials of the Chicago and North Western Ry. have agreed to review their decision not to turn over a 25-acre tract of virgin prairie in Des Plaines for preservation. The C&NW turned down a preservation request from a local group in August and has expressed concern about safety and security at the site, part of a storage-yard area.

Sen. Mondale tells principals:

'Education hurt by U.S. fund cuts'

Education has been a major casualty in the federal funding impoundment policies of the Nixon administration, said U.S. Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., at a meeting of the Illinois Principals Assn. Monday at Arlington Park Hotel.

The Democratic presidential hopeful proposed that budget cuts no longer be made in the areas of education and welfare, suggesting instead that the "sacred" defense budget be studied for waste.

"The financial crisis of many school districts must be realized," he said. "Local school support must rest at the state and local levels, because it is essential for local control, but we cannot permit federal support to be slack."

A proposed $500 million cut in school funding aid actually has an impact of $800 million if inflation is figured in, he said. "Schools cannot absorb such cutbacks. Most of it will be reflected in the local real estate taxes, where there is greatest resistance."

MONDALE SAID principals, superintendents and education leaders have been lax in their responsibility to carry the significance of education funding to the public.

He said voters seldom speak to him about federal aid to education because they don't realize what it means. He also said a Senate committee to study education in the nation could find only one unanimous conclusion after long deliberation, and that was to strengthen the role of school principals in the system. "His or her leadership sets the tone of the school," he said. The audience of principals was receptive to that suggestion.

Mondale challenged theories that the importance of education is slipping and that money should be put into welfare or programs to reduce poverty. He said education does just that. Among his list of advantages of education were elimination of illiteracy in the nation; lifting of 15 million persons from poverty; doubling college attendance; cutting the dropout rate in half, and bringing in countless dollars in national income and tax revenues.

He said he prefers a broader, more basic aid-to-education program from the federal level, and has worked to cope with the educational equity question. Less red tape and categorical programs are needed, he said, plus an evaluation program that would include all government spending, "to see what we're getting."

As Mondale was introduced, a lone demonstrator charged the speaker's table, shouting denunciations of the senator as a "fascist pig." The man, who was not identified by name, had entered the room using press credentials of "Solidarity," a

'Get out the bundling board'

Almanac says so: cold winter ahead

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's going to be a cold winter. That's the prediction from the 183rd Old Farmer's Almanac, just published with its pithy homilies, recipes, yarns and advice.

"Make sure you insulate your home, stuff up the cracks and get out the bundling board," advises the 192-page 1975 Almanac.

Bundling boards, obsolete in this permissive age, were used before central heating to allow unmarried couples to get to know each other, but not too well.

The occupants would slip under the covers of a bed to keep warm and the board was placed on edge down the middle of the bed between them.

The Almanac predicts mild weather through Christmas in the northern part of the country east of the Rockies, with a cold spell in the southern half of the country and west of the Rockies.

Snowfall is predicted before Christmas for the Pacific Northwest, upper Great Lakes and Plains states and mid-Atlantic states.

January through April will swing from abnormal cold to abnormal warmth in the north, the Almanac says. Very heavy snows are predicted in the Northwest, north Great Lakes and Northeast in January and March.

The Old Farmer's Almanac, founded in 1792 by Robert B. Thomas and published in Dublin, N.H., still has its familiar yellow cover and a hole punched in the upper left hand corner for hanging in a convenient spot.

The 1975 edition concentrates on advice for coping with the energy crisis and inflation, and everything from growing your own food — "run your rows north and south with the tallest crops at the north end of the plot" — to "the forgotten art of building a long-lasting fire."

There are tables for figuring when the fish will bite, when the moon will come up and when the tide will go out.

There are recipes keyed to every month of the year: November, hot potato salad; January, corn chowder; April, maple syrup pie.

There are anecdotes about turtles that forecast the weather and starfish that communicate with mental telepathy.

And home hints: "Put a strip of masking tape on plywood along where you plan to make a cut. Your saw won't splinter the wood."

There is an eyewitness account of the Battle of Lexington of April 19, 1775; a yarn about "The Most Dazzling Fraud of the Age," and "The Strangest Story Ever Told or Darn Close to It."

Then there is the sobering information that cows burp 50 million tons of hydrocarbons into the atmosphere annually; and that 10 cows burp enough of the gas annually to provide heat, hot water, and cooking gas requirements for a small home.

And throughout the book are those lines only cold winters could produce:

"God has given us two ends
With the one we sit
With the other we think Success in life depends
Which we choose Heads you win
Tails you lose."

House committee to resume Rocky hearings

Rep. Peter Rodino, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said in Chicago Monday the committee will begin a "scrupulously careful" hearing on Nelson Rockefeller's nomination as vice president shortly after the Nov. 5 elections. He and other committee members agreed the Rockefeller family's backing of a derogatory 1970 campaign biography was the most damaging evidence uncovered in an FBI probe of the nominee.

President pleads for enforced speed limit

President Ford Monday asked the nation's governors, big city mayors and major county officials to conserve energy by enforcing the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit and to fight inflation by eliminating "outmoded" rules on production and supply of services.

Rescued junk captain undaunted by failure

The Danish captain of a Chinese junk, rescued from the stormy Pacific last week on an ill-starred voyage to try to prove the ancient Chinese may have sailed to Central America, said Monday he would like to try again. Carl Grage, 44, and his six crewmen arrived in Seattle aboard the container ship which rescued them Oct. 9 about 900 miles south of Alaska's Adak Island.

British economic outlook is grim: Wilson

Prime Minister Harold Wilson told Britons Monday they face at least two years of belt-tightening to survive the country's gravest economic crisis since World War II. His grim warning to inflation-plagued Britain included reaffirmation of plans to nationalize large sections of industry still in private hands.

Coalition cabinet sought for Italy

Leftists urge Mexico join oil cartel

Two leftist political parties urged Monday that Mexico not only join the Middle East oil cartel but also help establish a separate Latin American cartel to protect Mexico's new oil find against U. S. "imperialism." The demand came amidst continuing estimates that newly-discovered fields in southeastern Mexico contain so much petroleum the total may not only outstrip the Venezuela oil fields but even the richest of those in the Mideast.

U.S. diplomats real targets of guerrillas

The Dominican guerrillas who were given political asylum in Panama after holding seven hostages in Santo Domingo for nearly two weeks disclosed Monday they planned originally to kidnap four U. S. embassy officials. But because of an unexpected change in schedule, they were able to abduct only Barbara Hutchinson, U. S. Information Service Director, and six others. All were released unharmed last week.

Market rallies again, Dow Jones at 673

The stock market got off to another good start Monday. Powered by favorable news developments, the market put on a rally through the day which pushed the final Dow Jones Industrial average up 15.33 points to 673.50 on the New York Stock Exchange. Investors were encouraged by last week's record-breaking rally and by a general reduction in the prime interest rate, a depressant to Wall Street for months.

Nixon, Rebozo tied to conspiracy as government opens cover-up case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prosecution opened its Watergate cover-up case Monday by charging that "even the President himself" was involved in the conspiracy and that Richard M. Nixon's best friend provided $50,000 to be paid to the original Watergate burglars.

Assistant Watergate Prosecutor Richard Don-Veniste, in a 3-hour, 10-minute opening statement to a jury of nine women and three men, said he would prove the cover-up was a conspiracy among "the most powerful men in the government of the United States . . . even the President himself."

Five of Nixon's former aides are on trial in connection with an alleged effort to cover up the link between the 1972 Watergate burglary and Nixon's re-election campaign.

Ben-Veniste told the jury that Nixon's friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo provided $50,000 in available campaign funds a month before the 1972 election — half of which went to the burglars arrested for breaking into Democratic National Headquarters at the Watergate complex, and half to a gubernatorial candidate.

The opening prosecution statement consumed the 10th day of the trial. Defense lawyers will make opening statements today, and the prosecution then will call its first witness, former White House Counsel John W. Dean III, Nixon's chief accuser.

Ben-Veniste also alluded to some hitherto unpublished White House tapes the prosecution will seek to enter into evidence.

On April 14, 1973, as the alleged cover-up began to unravel, Nixon asked his two top aides, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, who are defendants, about development of a strategy should Dean talk to prosecutors, Ben-Veniste said.

They agreed Dean had performed valuable services in the past, the prosecutor said, but then "considered a strategy of pushing Dean outside the circle of wagons around the White House." Ben-Veniste quoted Nixon as saying, "If you serve the investigators hors d'oeuvres, maybe they won't come back for the main course."

Nixon, who was named as an undicted co-conspirator before his resignation from office last Aug. 9, cannot be tried in the case because of a pardon granted him by President Ford. He has been subpoenaed as a witness, however, by both defense and prosecution attorneys.

Ford vetoes bill cutting Turkey aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Monday vetoed a bill that would require an arms cutoff to Turkey, saying it would threaten the NATO alliance and undercut efforts to negotiate a settlement of the Cyprus dispute with Greece.

Congress, which ignored Ford's veto warnings in adding the arms cutoff to a continuing funding resolution for a variety of government programs, appeared likely to consider overriding the veto on Wednesday so it can recess to campaign for the Nov. 5 elections.

It requires a two-thirds vote in both chambers to override a veto, and observers said it seemed likely the veto would be sustained, if not in the House — which will vote first — then in the Senate.

House leaders indicated that if the veto is sustained the bill may be resubmitted with the same language but with an automatic 45-day delay in the arms cutoff while the negotiators make another try.

In the Senate, Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., chief advocate of the cutoff in that chamber, said he was "disappointed and dismayed" by the veto because it sustained it would permit the "continued sending of illegal military aid to Turkey."

Guerrillas invited to debate in U.N.

From United Press International

Rejecting charges by Israel that the Palestine Liberation Organization practices "premeditated murder as a profession," the U.N. General Assembly voted overwhelmingly Monday to invite the guerrillas to debate the question of Palestine next month.

The U.N. vote came as Secretary of State Henry Kissinger headed home from his seventh Middle East tour convinced he has made progress toward the next phase of peace negotiations and a possible lowering of oil prices.

Nabeel Shaath, a spokesman for the guerrillas, said "We are extremely happy and extremely excited" about the U.N. action, adding that "a full delegation at the highest level of the PLO" will arrive in New York shortly to take part in the U.N. debate which begins Nov. 4.

Israel, the only nation to speak against the proposal to ask the Palestinian guerrillas to debate the question in the United Nations, said it "would amount to a bow to the scourge of savagery in utter humiliation."

The vote was 105-4 with 20 abstentions. Opposed were Israel, the Dominican Republic, Bolivia and the United States.

The debate next month will be the first time in U.N. history that the Palestine issue has been listed separately from the Middle East crisis.

After a final round of talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad, his second visit to Damascus in four days, Kissinger flew to Algeria. He was to go on to Morocco today before flying to Washington where he was scheduled to arrive later in the day.

In a statement on his departure from Damascus, Kissinger said that in his talks with Assad, "I pointed out that I had found some positive and encouraging signs and the problem now was to put them into concrete focus."

In a busy weekend of talks, Kissinger won agreement from Saudi Arabia to help him push for a drop in the world's record oil prices. He also worked out with Israel the details of an accord on the direction of the next round of Middle East peace talks and transmitted the Israeli ideas to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Cairo.

Kissinger also announced he would return to the Middle East during the first week in November.

Angry farmers in strategy meetings

by UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Members of the National Farmers Organization (NFO), angered by climbing feed costs and sagging cattle, hog and dairy prices, gathered at scores of farm centers Monday to plot strategy.

While farmers banded together in efforts to boost prices for their products, members of the American Meat Institute (AMI), meeting in Chicago, discussed ways of making lower quality meats palatable to the housewife. They heard predictions that consumption of beef is headed for a record high.

The militant NFO scheduled 160 meetings across the farm belt Monday night to consider possible courses of action. Oren Lee Staley, president of the organization headquartered in Corning, Iowa, said: "I've never seen farmers so mad."

"All you have to do is talk to bankers or auctioneers and they will tell how farmers are on the verge of having to sell out," he said.

Staley said hog producers are losing about $25 a head on their stock and cattle feeders $50 to $100 a head.

Staley, saying the NFO was "just waiting and seeing what the response will be," was reluctant to predict what the outcome of the meetings would be until he saw the figures on the turnouts.

At the AMI meeting, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard Feltner said that despite talk of consumer resistance to beef, 1974 consumption was likely to set a record of more than 116 pounds per person and 1975 consumption was expected to be even higher.

In related developments Monday:

• Treasury Secretary William E. Simon reported having an "extremely friendly" 3½ hour meeting with Soviet trade officials in Moscow, which included wide-ranging discussion of the U. S. and international grain situation. The $500 million grain deal blocked by President Ford came up, but Simon wouldn't say whether he thought it eventually would go through.

• President Ford's special ambassador for foreign trade — William D. Eberle — said in Tokyo the U. S. is out to block foreign countries from buying American grain in 1974 and then reselling it to third nations. He said the country is willing to meet legitimate food needs of other nations.

That extra layer, says Dr. Ulliyot, really starts to show after 20 miles when men fade fast and women just really get going — even to "feel great" after races of 50 to 100 miles, while the men finish in sheer agony.

• Show biz: Sen. Sam Ervin, the retiring homespun hero of the Senate Watergate hearings, and Elliot Richardson, ex-man-of-many-hats under President Nixon, will be guest commentators on ABC-TV's "A. er's guide" to the Nov. 5 general election.

The 16-page tabloid includes information about national, state and county candidates with questions about campaign issues, voting information and texts of statements by the candidates.

LWV members will sell the "guide" for 15 cents at Chicago and North Western Ry. stations in late October. The "guide" also can be purchased from LWV members Marge Storey in Arlington Heights or Jane Yauch in Mount Prospect or from the LWV office in Chicago.

Drug-information talk

A drug-information symposium involving county and local officials is scheduled at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Schaumburg High School, 1100 W. Schaumburg Rd.

The symposium, sponsored by Sheriff Richard Elrod, will include 15-minute presentations by Joanne Reid of Schaumburg Township's Spectrum program, and by deputies Ronald Slevers and Charles John of Elrod's Youth Services Dept.

The panel will discuss drug use and youth programs in the suburbs. A drug display that shows commonly used drugs also is planned.

Take extra care with fire

Local moisture is below normal this year, and dormant and drying vegetation has caused a potential for fires in county forest preserves.

Firefighting crews in 12 divisions of the Forest Preserve District are on full alert, said County Board Pres. George W. Dunne.

Dunne urged the public to call the district collect if unable to put out small fires or if discovering a large blaze. District dispatchers are manning phones at 261-8100 (Chicago) and 359-9429 (suburban).

Herald staffers honored for depth reporting

Bob Casey

Al Messerschmidt

Lynn Asinof

Three Herald staff members were honored for investigative reporting this week with announcement of annual awards by the Inland Daily Press Assn.

Cited for "distinguished investigative reporting of aspects of government that should be explored in the public interests," were Herald assistant managing editor Robert Casey, metropolitan affairs editor Al Messerschmidt and staff writer Lynn Asinof.

The three were lauded for their several months of inquiry into politics in the Village of Wheeling, which led to the conviction and imprisonment of former local politicians including former Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman James Stavros.

The Herald was given second place in the 25,000-to-75,000-circulation category for daily newspapers.

Said the judges of the Herald staffers' work:

"The strongest aspect of this team's entry was its continuing imaginative development of new sources and new aspects of improper actions by local officials and the construction industry. As a result of investigations by the three, and by the federal government, a nest of local officials either were convicted or pleaded guilty to such charges as extortion, perjury and conspiracy."

The entries were judged by faculty members of the University of Wisconsin School of Journalism.

The Inland Daily Press Assn. is the largest of the daily newspaper associations in the county and includes the Midwest from the Canadian border to the Gulf and from Ohio to the Rocky Mountain states.

High school district report

'Average' teacher holds a master's

The average teacher in High School Dist. 214 is a 33-year-old man, holds a master's degree, has been teaching nine years and makes close to $18,000.

That composite picture is drawn from data in the district's 1974-75 annual personnel report prepared by Robert Cudney, director of instructional staffing.

According to the report, which is used to assess patterns in the makeup of the staff, the district is "growing academically." Last year, statistics showed that 47 district teachers had earned a master's degree plus 60 hours credit toward a doctorate, or had attained a doctorate degree. In 1972-73, only 26 had done so.

This year, 74 of the district's 1,044 teachers, or about 7 per cent, have earned a master's and either have a doctorate or have 60 hours credit toward a doctorate.

Sixty nine per cent of all district teachers have earned a master's degree or more.

ALTHOUGH THE district hired more female than male teachers this year, the number of female resignations increased the percentage of male teachers on the staff from 61 to 63 per cent.

The district received 3,001 applications, up 1,000 from last year, for only 129 jobs.

About one-third of the new staff consists of teachers new to Dist. 214, according to Cudney's report. About 40 per cent of the new staff holds advanced degrees.

Salaries of new teachers jumped from $10,078 last year to $11,685 this year. Cudney's report cited the teacher salary increase and an interest in hiring more experienced teachers as the reason for the increase.

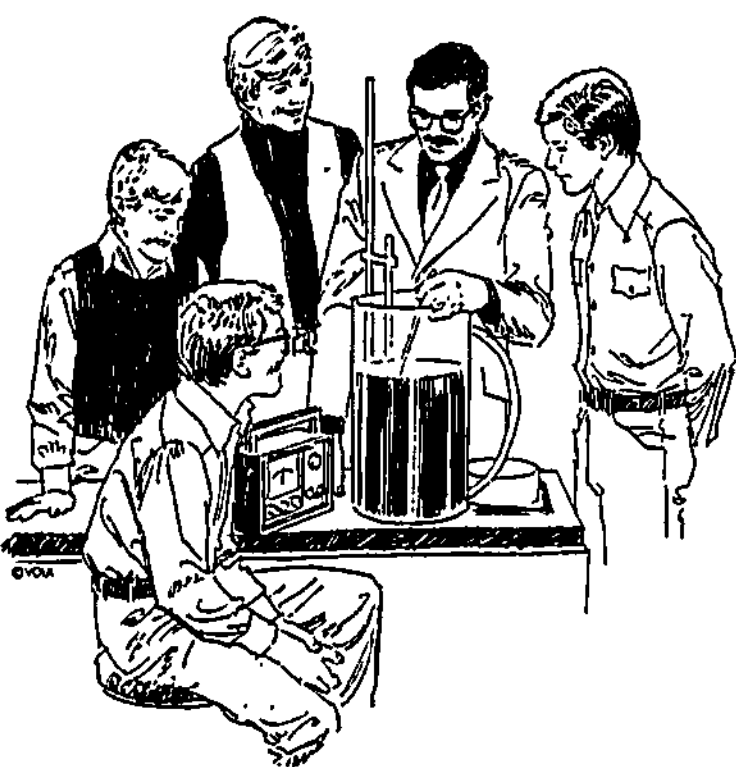

NEW TEACHERS at Wheeling High School average the highest salaries

($12,811), followed by Buffalo Grove ($11,998), Forest View ($11,892), Prospect ($11,570), Rolling Meadows ($11,334), Elk Grove ($10,948), Arlington ($10,818), and Hersey ($10,700).

Of the new staff, 55 graduated from either Northern Illinois University or the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. The rest come from colleges and universities across the country.

The most popular subject area applied for by teachers was English, with 533 applications, and physical education, with 506 applicants.

According to the report, there was an increased number of applicants for every area, with the exception of industrial arts, "which continues to be a very difficult area in which to find quality candidates." Only 57 people applied for industrial arts positions.

For dropouts, underachievers

New program gives teens a second chance to learn

by BOB GALLAS

John, a high school dropout from a broken home, was described by his teachers as a nonattending, nonconforming, unmotivated student with a poor chance for success.

Despite his classical description as an underachiever with a variety of learning problems, John decided to return to school two years after dropping out and was accepted back by High School Dist. 214.

A year later, John was "involved, motivated, making reasonable grades" and even joined the track team en route to graduation.

A few years ago, the story might have been different — John would have been turned away or just "pushed along" to graduation.

TODAY, HOWEVER, dropouts, underachievers and others are receiving special help in a new Dist. 214 program aimed at helping students with learning problems get back into the mainstream.

"It used to be that we'd say, 'We have done everything we can for the student,'" said Richard Stanowski, head of pupil services at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights. "Now we ask, 'Have we done everything we can for the students?'"

The program is called the Individual Resource program and it is being used districtwide after a one-year pilot program at Elk Grove High School.

It provides individualized help for students with poor reading ability, social immaturity, poor motivation, lack of skills in a particular area or any other problem that hinders the student from functioning properly in class.

A forerunner of the program, the Cooperative Work Agreement, offered special classes for underachievers at the freshman and sophomore levels only. The present program has been expanded to accommodate juniors and seniors as well as average students and those with special learning abilities.

"Experience showed us that the old program was good for 50 per cent of the kids, who were in it, but the other 50 per cent still had problems," said David Whitlode, district coordinator of special education services. "Besides, you don't always stimulate and change in two years, when the pattern has been set for 10 years."

THE INDIVIDUAL Resource Program revolves around a "resource center" at every school, staffed with learning disabilities teachers, counselors, teachers with special training in a subject area, and aides.

Students can use the center to study for a test, meet with a teacher or counselor for help, take advantage of study materials or, in some cases, just relax and play a game of table hockey with a fellow student.

In addition to academic help, the program also tries to help the stu-

INDIVIDUAL HELP is the aim of the Individual Resource program, getting started this year at all High School Dist. 214 schools. Buffalo Grove High School English teacher, Donna

McVey, helps students with their speech class work, with the aid of a tape recorder. The recorder allows the students to hear how they sound and helps improve delivery.

For example, a girl with a poor self-image at Forest View might be put to work in a nursery school next door to the school. Through a cooperative agreement, the girl becomes a nursery school teacher.

"The little kids begin to rely on her and look up to her," said Stanowski. "It helps her image and builds her ego."

ALTHOUGH there are about 1,100 students in the Individual Resource Program this year, other students sometimes feel the advantage of the resource center.

At Forest View, aides are available to any classroom teachers who might need help at a particular time, for example a biology teacher might need help during a lab project.

"They (aides) are on loan like a library book," Stanowski said.

While the program has basic guidelines, schools individualize their own program to fit the needs of their students.

At Hersey High School, special classes are set up in the basic subjects required of freshmen such as biology, math and English in addition to the option classes in home economics, woods, metals and graphics.

Helton on trial after 2 1/2 years

by JOE SWICKARD

Ronald Helton goes back to court today, after a delay of more than 2 1/2 years, to face charges in the stabbing murder of an Arlington Heights service station manager during a 1969 robbery.

Helton, now 21, was one of several young men charged with the Nov. 11, 1969, stabbing of Fred Tallon at the Arlington Park Shell service station, Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue. The charges against the other men were dropped before Helton's first trial in 1972.

The original trial was stopped by Circuit Court Judge Daniel J. Ryan, who ruled that statements allegedly made by Helton to the Arlington Heights police were inadmissible.

In August, the Illinois Appellate Court overturned Ryan's ruling and opened the way for the new trial.

MELVIN KAMM, Helton's attorney in the case, said he will present several pretrial motions before Circuit Court Judge Jacques Heilingoetter, who will be hearing the case in the Civic Center.

Female Kiwanian 'delighted' by support

Mary Clark, the only woman member of the Elk Grove Kiwanis, said Monday she is delighted with the chapter's decision to fight orders from the international organization to ban women from the Kiwanis.

Miss Clark, administrative librarian of the Elk Grove Village Public Library, said she was gratified by the majority vote Saturday to keep her name on the rolls despite the threat that the local club may lose its charter.

"I think the Kiwanis of Elk Grove has distinguished itself by this action," Miss Clark said. "They've gone with the person instead of the piece of paper and taken the humanistic rather than the legalistic approach."

ONE INTERNATIONAL Kiwanis official, Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, was quoted as saying he did not consider Saturday's vote "final."

Myerson denied making the statement Monday, saying he would not comment on further action that might be taken by Kiwanis International until after a meeting with local Kiwanians scheduled for Saturday.

"After I speak in an official capacity with them (Elk Grove Kiwanis members) and inform them of the rules and regulations, they must operate under, we'll proceed from there," Myerson said.

RICHARD HARRELL, president of the local chapter, would say only that the group had met, rendered its decision on the matter and reported it to the proper authorities.

Miss Clark said she considers the vote final.

"I feel what I heard Saturday is that I am to remain a member and I will remain a member unless the local group changes its mind."

Miss Clark said she has offered to resign, but only at the request of the Elk Grove chapter.

"I feel perhaps Kiwanis International is trying to diminish the strength of local clubs by not including women," she said. "The local group has said they feel they need women like me and I don't think International can interpret the needs of the community."

Township man held in murder of roommate

A former unincorporated Wheeling Township resident is being held without bail by sheriff's police in connection with the October 1973 murder of his roommate.

William Mahon, 20, formerly of 741 Piper Ln., was charged Friday with the murder of Charles Watts, 19.

Police said Mahon had been sought since November 1973 and estimated he has traveled 20,000 miles during the last year, using aliases to elude police. Police said Mahon was charged with murder and concealing a murder.

The Manila—one of Asia's best hotels—to be replaced

by VICENTE MALIWANAG

MANILA (UPI) — The Manila Hotel, one of the few surviving grand old hotels of Asia, has finally lost its battle with the jet age.

Within the next two years, the historic edifice, a witness to war and diplomacy, politics and countless beautiful sunsets on Manila Bay, will give way to a new structure.

At age 64, the once majestic hotel has been pronounced too old and musty for the needs of today's demanding jet travelers.

FOR THOSE who treasure memories of the Manila Hotel and its good old days, there may be some consolation in the fact that the new hotel will have the same facade — either in its original or restructured form. Everything else, however, from cutlery to plumbing, will be new.

The state-owned, five-story 263-room hotel with its distinctive whitewashed walls and green roof has been going to seed in recent years, crowded out of the steadily growing tourist trade by such new hotels as the Hilton, Hyatt and Intercontinental.

Most of the clientele attracted by the hotel were either unimpressed or lured by memories of its stately past. For many old-time travelers, the Manila Hotel was among the venerable Asian hotels such as the Raffles in Singapore, the Peninsula in Hong Kong, the Strand in Rangoon and the old Imperial in Tokyo before it too was torn down.

The hotel, built overlooking Manila Bay in 1910 during U.S. colonial rule in the Philippines, styled itself as "the Aristocrat of the Orient" at the height of its popularity.

ON JULY 4, 1912, its formal opening attracted a glittering gathering that included 600 couples, "the largest number of waltzers ever assembled at one time in Manila," according to the hotel's official history.

From the early days of the Philippine Commonwealth in the late 1830s until the outbreak of World War II in 1941, the hotel was the official residence of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. When Manila fell on Jan. 2, 1942, the Japanese military administration took possession of the hotel, reserving it exclusively for ranking Japanese officers, a select number of Filipino government officials and influential Japanese civilians.

The hotel was the scene of room-to-room fighting when American forces came to liberate the city from Japanese occupation troops in 1945. The U.S. Army repaired the hotel and occupied it until 1949 when the government repossessed it. Government-run operations lasted unprofitably for five years and the hotel was leased to a private group, Bay View Hotel, Inc., for 20 years.

Last June, the lease ran out and the hotel reverted back to the government, its fate uncertain until this month when President Ferdinand H. Marcos ordered its modernization. Marcos, however, put the condition that the existing facade be retained — or rebuilt — because of its historical value.

THE 57-YEAR-OLD Filipino leader has reason to cherish fond memories of the hotel. It was within its premises that he received the official nomination of the then opposition Nacionalista Party to run in the 1965 presidential elections which he eventually won.

The following year, Marcos also played host to President Johnson and other chiefs of state of the Vietnam War allies in a seven-nation summit meeting, with all the visitors occupying suites at the Manila Hotel.

Ricardo Aguilar, 46, former captain waiter of the hotel's plushiest restaurant, the Champagne Room, and who now is part of a skeleton caretaker staff, said he has mixed feelings over the fate of the hotel.

"I've worked here for 28 years and I practically grew into manhood in this hotel and I'd like to remember the hotel as it used to be," he said, "But I guess progress has to march on."

Savannah

Last of the English Colonies, this Georgia port city boasts several historical 'firsts'

by BETTY PLATT

To stroll the cobbled lanes of Savannah is to walk the paths of history.

Savannah was the first settlement and capital of the last English colony in America, but starting last didn't keep Savannah from scoring an impressive number of historical "firsts."

The year after Savannah's founding in 1733, the first economic garden in America, really the first agricultural experiment station, flourished there. The world's first Sunday school, North America's first Moravian church, and the first African Baptist congregation were born in Savannah. The Girl Scouts of America was founded there, and it was the site of the first United States Grand Prix.

AS A GREAT port city, Savannah can boast of several maritime firsts: the first steamship ever to cross an ocean, the first commercially successful iron steamship, and the first nuclear-powered merchant ship.

Even when an older city or colony got the jump on Savannah, she had the staying power often to emerge preeminent; while none of these started first, Savannah has wound up with the oldest orphanage in America, the oldest congregation still practicing reform Judaism in the United States, the oldest continuously operating theater in the country, and the oldest hospital on the East Coast.

On Feb. 12, 1733, General James Edward Oglethorpe and 120 colonists, having crossed the Atlantic from Gravesend, England, on the good ship Ann, arrived at Yamacraw Bluff on the Savannah River to found "the colony of Georgia in America." The purposes of the colony, the thirteenth and last of the English colonies in the New World, were to aid the poor in England, to increase imperial trade and navigation, and to serve as a protective buffer between Spanish Florida and the more northerly English colonies.

Today, the spot where Oglethorpe and his colonists landed (according to local tradition, the precise spot where the general pitched his damask-lined field tent) is marked only by a marble bench, a monumental modesty for the South, so conscious of its historical past.

OGLETHORPE LAID OUT the city on a system of public squares which were intended as central areas of fortification for the colonists and in which were located the neighborhood water wells, notice boards, public meeting places, and the like. Each family received a house lot on one of the squares and, beyond the city, a five-acre garden plot. Still farther beyond were the 45-acre farm lots.

This precise geometric plan, which has been called "the most original and brilliant plan of any American city before L'Enfant planned Washington, D. C.," was drawn in England by a planner whose name has been lost to history. Unfortunately for today's urban sprawl and land-use conflicts, the idea of planning for orderly expansion didn't exactly sweep the New World.

Unlike most of the pioneer European settlements in America, Savannah did not have to endure bloody encounters with the native American Indians, thanks to a great and lasting rapport between Oglethorpe and Tomo-chi-chi, the "mico" or chief of the Yamacraw tribe of Creeks. Savannah's earliest troubles came at the hands of the Spaniards in Florida until their departure from the continent in 1763, after which Savannah and the Georgia colony grew rapidly and prospered.

From the outset, Savannah was an important seaport, sending to England the products of its agriculture and trade with the Indians and importing finished products and manufactured goods. Its earliest exports included lumber, indigo, naval stores, and rice. Once, diked rice paddies virtually surrounded Savannah, but in the 1820s and 30s wet rice culture was eliminated because of the scourge of yellow fever which decimated the city in 1820. By that time cotton had become the dominant export crop and, for nearly a century, the factors or brokers trading in the cotton exchange on Savannah's waterfront set world cotton prices.

Savannah's growth and prosperity endured numerous setbacks caused by military engagements during the American Revolution and the Civil War, devastating fires in 1796 and 1820, epidemic depressions, and the collapse of cotton prices in 1895.

DURING THE Revolution, Savannah saw military action three times. First, the city was taken by colonial insurgents at the outset of the war. In 1778, the British recaptured it. The following year, the American army laid siege to Savannah in an unsuccessful effort to retake the city. Savannah suffered damage in all three encounters.

After the Revolution, the hero of the Southern campaign, General Nathaniel Greene, moved to an estate, just outside Savannah, that had been granted him by a grateful Georgia government. It was while tutoring Greene's children in 1793 that Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin, an event that revolutionized Savannah and the South and sowed the seeds of the War between the States.

Although Savannah was not captured until rather late in the war, it suffered throughout the Civil War because of the Union navy's coastal blockade. Rather than risk utter destruction, Savannahians surrendered their city to Sherman on Dec. 22, 1864, and the general sent his famous message to President Lincoln: "I beg to present to you as a Christmas gift, the City of Savannah with 150 heavy guns and plenty of ammunition and also about 25,000 bales of cotton."

Since the Civil War, Savannah has cruised serenely through history, continuing its role as the major United States seaport on the South Atlantic coast, expanding its industry, blossoming as a major recreation and tourist center, preserving and restoring the special charm with which nature and the events of history have graced it.

But preservation and restoration of the city's historical heritage have not come easily.

Special European tours planned for 'Holy Year'

VIA DOLOROSA — The Way of Sorrows — is the path of Christ's journey through Jerusalem to the place of His crucifixion. Church of the Holy Sepulchre, right, traditional site of tomb of Christ, adjoins historic street.

With the coming year designated as Holy Year, airlines and tour operators are creating special packages to the Holy Land and various Christian shrines throughout Europe.

Holy Year, proclaimed by Pope Paul as a period of "renewal and reconciliation," marks the perpetuation of a 700-year-old tradition begun by Pope Boniface in 1300 and held at 25-year intervals ever since.

Aer-Lingus, the Irish International Airline, is offering a wide range of two and three-week tours featuring Ireland, Europe and the Holy Land.

SOME OF THESE tours are less than $400, excluding air fare. All include first class hotels, breakfast and dinner. In all cases, an audience of the Pope will be requested, and most tours will be accompanied by a clergyman.

Aer-Lingus will start these tours in April to allow time to include Easter. Ask your travel agent for colorful brochures and details.

A really comprehensive program of Holy Year pilgrimages has been developed by Trans World Airlines for 1975.

In addition to a series of 15 hosted and escorted tours ranging from one to three weeks designed for individuals and groups, and a special Holy Year charter program with a choice of three itineraries, TWA will custom design pilgrimages tailored to a group's special needs and interests.

THE 15 PILGRIMAGES in the "Holy Year in Europe" program include hotel accommodations (medium and first class, all with private bath or shower) in the package price. All feature a Papal audience or appearance, a visit to Assisi, religious and historical sightseeing in Rome and other major destinations, and some meals.

There's a lot of variety in the eight escorted trips which are for two and three weeks. Some are centered around Rome and include only Italy. Others will be especially appealing to people of Irish or German descent, or to persons who want to visit the shrines at Fatima and Lourdes, or trace the paths of Christ in the Holy Land.

An experienced tour director goes along on each pilgrimage.

Should you want to make a pilgrimage on your own — and do it at low group rates — TWA offers seven itineraries from one to two weeks — all with a choice of medium and first class hotels.

IN EVERY CITY there will be a resident, English-speaking hostess to guide and assist.

Members of an organization can go individually on any of the 15 pilgrimages at low group rates, or they can reserve a minimum of 10 to 15 places and travel as a group.

Then there's the airline's special charter program — "Holy Year in Rome." With this program an organization can sponsor an entire 175-seat TWA Boeing 707 and offer their members a choice of three pilgrimages, each 13 days and 11 nights.

Your group can travel together on a single itinerary or divide itself up into two or three smaller groups and visit different pilgrimage sites.

TWA also will custom design a Holy Year pilgrimage to a group's specific interests if none of the regular or charter pilgrimages are exactly right.

THE 15 HOSTED and escorted pilgrimages are all described in TWA's 52-page, full-color "Holy Year in Europe" brochure which you can get from your travel agent.

Following the path of Christ's journey through Jerusalem — or stopping to meditate at Christian shrines — or visiting St. Peter's Basilica in Rome — can be very inspiring experiences on tours that are a pleasant blend of the devotional and sightseeing.

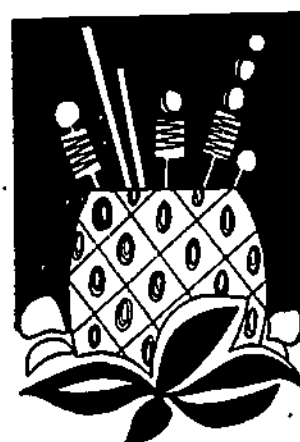

In 1975 — Holy Year — why not make a pilgrimage?

Kansas City makes bid to capture tourist dollar

by MURRAY J. BROWN

Everything is up to date in Kansas City in the "Show Me" state of Missouri.

The former frontier town has undergone a dramatic change as the result of a $3.4 billion urban renaissance program, which has included a new International airport, amusement park, convention center, sports stadiums and luxury hotels among other projects.

"After years of little more than stockyards, jazz joints and plush residential areas to show visitors, we are now well on the way to becoming the major tourist destination in the Midwest," said Ray Bannison, president of Kansas City's Convention and Visitors Bureau in a recent interview.

"ALTHOUGH IT WAS always known as one of the nation's most beautiful cities, Kansas City today offers an interesting and lively potpourri of entertainment, relaxation, shopping, sports and deluxe hotels that were once considered the exclusive property of New York and other 'glamorous' cities," he said.

Among other things, he said, visitors can quickly discover they can:

- Stroll more miles of tree-lined boulevards than in any city except Paris and enjoy more public fountains than in any city outside Rome.

- Shop in the fancy boutiques or sip refreshments at a sidewalk cafe in the Country Club Plaza, a Midwest version of Fifth Avenue, dominated by the graceful Spanish-style Giralda Tower and Seville Light.

- Relax in a lush tropical garden with a 60-foot waterfall — in the lobby of the Crown Center Hotel.

- Race through jungle trees on a Worlds of Fun roller coaster that's appropriately called the Zambesi Zinger.

- Ride sedately in an English-style double-decker bus to River Quay, Kansas City's new "old" town.

And if the great American pastime is the tourist's thing, there's the Royals Stadium, a magnificent 41,000-seat arena with a 12-story high computerized scoreboard and a $750,000 water spectacular. The stadium is one of a matched set — the other being the 78,000-seat Arrowhead Stadium, the big teepee of the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League.

IN ADDITION, Bannison said, there are Broadway shows nightly at the Starlight Theater; the world renowned Nelson Museum and Art Gallery with $25 million worth of Oriental art; and the maze of farout boutiques at Hallmark's Crown Center with the atmosphere of a Middle East bazaar.

There are also golf courses, tennis, swimming pools, picnicking and riding and hiking trails as well as a zoo in Swope Park.

One of the most popular attractions with tourists, according to surveys, is Worlds of Fun, the creation of sportsman Lamar Hunt. In its first year, the family amusement and entertainment center drew about 90,000 visitors — more than 300,000 of them from outside the Kansas City area.

Jack Steadman, president of Worlds of Fun as well as Hunt's football Chiefs, believes that Kansas City hasn't even begun to realize its full potential as a tourist center.

"More than 10,000 people drive by Kansas City during the summer months alone," he said. "Today they are starting to stop — and that could mean $18 million a summer to the city."

And that ain't hay — even in a former cowtown.

Jamaica's national bird

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (UPI) — Jamaica's national bird is the streamer-tailed hummingbird, which can be found nowhere else in the world. Jamaicans call it the "doctor bird" because its long, black tail looks like the old-fashioned swallowtail coats worn by Victorian era doctors.

YMCA offers classes in parent effectiveness

A "school for parents," consisting of eight consecutive classes in Parent Effectiveness Training (P.E.T.) is being formed at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines.

One session will be held Tuesday evenings from 7:15 to 9:45 beginning Nov. 5. The other is scheduled for Thursday mornings from 9:15 to 11:45 beginning Nov. 7. The course is open to fathers and mothers of children of all ages, to single parents and to all interested adults. Skills taught are applicable to all relationships: husband-wife, teacher-student, employer-employee and parent-child.

P.E.T., a national educational program, differs from encounter or sensitivity training, although growth does occur through insights gained in learning. It teaches parents how to end rebellion, settle conflicts, make rules that stick, eliminate punishment, give up nagging, stop power struggles, foster independence, have fun and know love.

MARY BURSON, who has taught P.E.T. for four years and has had five years experience in leadership training, group training and leading family workshops, will be the instructor.

Registration for the two sessions of classes is now open. The tuition is $65 for non-members and $80 for members. Further information may be obtained at 296-3378. Tuition fee includes a workbook and textbook.

Making tea that won't cloud

Dear Dorothy: Iced tea is a year-around favorite in this house. I'm still hunting for a good way to make it so that it won't get cloudy when stored in the refrigerator. — Saloma Barker

With tea the standard beverage in so many countries, it's a little astonishing that so few of us here know much about making it. The important first step is to make tea in a china or earthenware pot. Use one teaspoon for every cup of boiling water.

After the tea is steeped (for at least two minutes), it can be strained, cooled and then refrigerated for use in iced tea. Some maintain that made this way the tea will not cloud up. One friend is addicted to an unorthodox way. She puts a large pinch of tea leaves in a quart jar of water, puts it in the sun, covered, until the desired color is reached. Strained, it goes into the refrigerator — and never clouds. I prefer the standard, recommended method.

Dear Dorothy: I bought Kiwi fruit because it intrigued me, but I'm puzzled by the instructions that came with it. It says to ripen the hard fruit, then store at room temperature in a plastic bag with either an apple or a banana. What on earth for? — Linda Elmwood

Herald opinion

TV should bring us government in action

WTTW-TV (Channel 11) demonstrated recently just how important television can be in encouraging public involvement in government.

The station, in cooperation with the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, televised a public hearing on the Chicago Area Transportation Study plan for the future of transportation in the six-county area.

Viewers were permitted to phone in questions to Channel 11 about the plan, which projects this area's transportation systems into 1985. NIPC officials reported they received about 350 citizen calls about the plan, despite the fact that the program competed with "Rhoda" and Monday night football.

Such a program is ideal for Channel 11, whose viewing area roughly coincides with the six-county area which NIPC covers. Television is uniquely capable of providing such coverage, and we encourage it to continue such programming.

There's a message in the success of this program, and that is that TV has been a vastly underused medium in providing such kinds of public service to the viewer.

There's no good reason, for example, that similar public hearings conducted by such bodies as the Cook County Board or the Metropolitan Sanitary District can't be televised. TV time would have to be located, but the idea should not be discarded because of the difficulty of finding time.

Despite the prevalence of apathy towards all levels of government, there's been keen viewing interest in the past in the Ervin Watergate Committee and the Army-McCarthy hearings. Granted, there's nothing especially stirring about the deliberations of most public bodies, but on-the-scene, live coverage would produce perhaps a growing audience and could generate a vast amount of public interest in previously ignored government.

The challenge of government today is to adapt modern technology to make it more effective. The use of computers has been one example of such sophistication. That technology should be extended to bring government out to the people. After all, we deserve such communication while reserving the right to criticize our government in action.

Mountain comes to Mohammed

'How to be a neighbor'

If we all obeyed the following, I believe our environment would be much neater, property values would go up and we would all be better neighbors.

- Keep your car(s) in the garage or, next best, on your driveway. Use street parking only as a last resort, and park in front of your own house.
- Pick up newspapers and debris from your property as soon as you see it.
- Garbage cans should be kept in the garage. If this is not feasible, they should be confined to an area well hidden by shrubs.
- Garbage should be put out to the street on the evening before its pickup. Empty cans should be removed from the street as soon as possible.
- Keep lawn and parkway as weed-free as possible. Fill in holes and ruts with grass seed. Reel up hoses not in use.
- Mow lawn and edge along sidewalk. If you have a fence, cut grass and weeds along there, too. Rake and dispose of fall leaves.
- If you plant trees or shrubs, be sure they are well within the property line. Allow for growth. Keep shrubs neatly trimmed. Remove dead ones.
- Paint your residence when it needs it. Finish the job as soon as possible, especially if you are switching to a different color.
- In winter, shovel public sidewalk as well as driveway and entry walk. This applies to corner lot owners, too.

- Barking dogs and noisy wind chimes should not be left out of doors.
- Boats, trailers and campers should be properly stored away.
- Do not dump oil, grease or paint in street sewers.
- If you have reason to order a load of dirt, sand or gravel, use it as soon as possible.
- Teach your children that they should not play ball or other games in the street.

- Teach your children not to use neighbors' yards as a short cut.
- Teach your children not to play or ride their bikes on other lawns.
- Teach your children to bring in their toys and bikes.
- Take a critical look at your dwelling place, and remove, repair, replace or change anything that needs it. The neater the general appearance, the prouder and happier you'll be.

Kiwanis praises help

The Kiwanis Club of Arlington Heights wish to extend a big hearty thanks to business establishments and citizens who made contributions to the annual Kiwanis Peanut Day program on Sept. 27. The event was a gratifying success for local Kiwanis.

All proceeds from Peanut Day contributions will be used for community and youth programs. Kiwanis Club is a men's service organization whose stated purpose is "Service to Youth, Community and Nation." The club will now begin to study the needy projects for Arlington Heights.

Kiwanis Club of Arlington Heights is in its infancy. It was started in January, 1974 by a group of interested business and professional men from Arlington Heights, and the club was chartered as a member of Kiwanis International in June this year. The charter group felt that a city the size of Arlington Heights should have a Kiwanis Club and hope to see it grow.

'No San Quentin for Nixon'

It used to be that when you were accused of a crime you were tried. If found guilty, you landed up in a place like San Quentin. Not so nowadays. Now, if you play your cards right and put in a "fix," you can end up with a pardon (before your crimes are even listed or tried in the courts) and wind up a millionaire, living in San Clemente.

How can this be? Is justice wearing a blindfold? Two sets of rules, on liberty and justice? It surely seems so at this point of current events.

Regarding ex-President Nixon's health: at the risk of sounding like "E.S.P. Jean Dixon," I predict that we're being primed for more underhanded and devious tricks. I predicted that Mr. Nixon's doctor (Major General Walter Tkach) would "convince" Mr. Nixon to enter the hospital by the end of September (unless the October 1 trial of Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Mitchell was postponed). Mr. Nixon will suffer "ill health" this month (the trial) and November (the elections), but in December a miracle will happen. No, Jesus isn't going to visit us on His birthday, but Dr. Tkach's "miracle" is going to happen and Mr. Nixon will recover. Yep, that's what my crystal ball says.

General Haig and NATO: better call in an exorcist real quick. With Gen. Haig as a supreme allied commander, we'd better prepare ourselves for a rash of "sinister forces" at work. You may recall that when ex-President Nixon had "gaps in his tapes," Gen. Haig claimed "sinister forces" were the culprit. We'd better all run for the holy water.

Speaking of "sinister forces," wonder what ever happened to "Remember the Pueblo, Rev. Paul Lindstrom," of Prospect Heights? Rev. Lindstrom and his followers have been strangely silent in the press lately. Wonder why he has no profound statements to make, as he has in the past? Howard Miller, too. Sort of miss the old gang and their patriotic pearls of wisdom. Keep looking for the "Commies" under my bed, but all I've found lately are dust balls. Do you suppose they're silent because their idols were found to have feet of clay? Where is the right-wing element who used to be so vocal? Why aren't they warning us about enemies out to ruin the government and country? Don't recall who said it, but I remember a quote that seems very timely, "We have met the enemy, and it is us."

Hits model farm idea

Recently the Arlington Heights Herald featured an article on the park district gardens and stated there were plans to convert this land to a model farm. In my opinion there is a bit of typical bureaucratic bungling in the thinking that would replace an activity in which many entire families participate to one of those, "My my how wonderful — see it once in five years spectacles" (with a high upkeep cost?) I believe The Herald could perform a real service if it would survey how other people feel about this.

Senate press aides: they cost $2.5 million

by STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ever wonder how much taxpayers are charged so that senators can have press aides? Try $2.5 million a year.

The figure is not exact. It could be higher.

The total is arrived at by taking the list of persons designated by senators as their press secretaries and adding up their salaries which are made public.

On the basis of that exercise in higher math, the annual outlay is $2,564,373.

The average salary is $25,002 with three top earners at $31,770 and one starting at $10,602.

The figures are somewhat inexact because about one fourth of those designated as press secretaries have other, overriding functions. Some of them make up to $35,910.

But that loss is more than compensated for by the fact that just about every press secretary has a secretary and many have assistants.

What does the taxpayer get for this astronomical amount?

An almost endless stream of material, ranging from announcements of sewer grants to major speeches, all of which are designed to make the senator look good to his constituents and, if not good, save him from looking bad.

Almost invariably, the press secretary is a high-ranking member of the staff. In salary, he rates just below the administrative and legislative assistants.

The administrative assistant runs the office; the legislative assistant provides the expertise on bills; and the press secretary glorifies the accomplishments of his leader.

While the $2.5 million is spent for the benefit of individual senators, nothing is spent on the Senate itself. The Senate has no press secretary.

Neither do the committees with the exception of Armed Services and Finance who share one with the chairmen. Some other committees make a stab at public relations.

As a result, the opinions of an individual senator on specific legislation are heavily publicized while the substance of the bill gets little, if any, unsolicited exposure.

At least one senator, however, does his best to save taxpayers' money.

Befitting his Vermont background, Republican Sen. George D. Aiken lists his wife as his press secretary and pays her nothing. She is also his administrative assistant for which she gets the same amount.

If there is any question on the importance elected officials place on press secretaries, there is always the example set by President Ford whose first official act was to name a press secretary.

Rape-study panel hearing Monday

The Illinois House of Representatives Rape Study Committee, investigating the causes and prevention of rape, will conduct a public hearing starting at 10 a.m. Monday in Niles.

Rape victims and witnesses representing police agencies, hospitals, penal institutions, public prosecutors, courts and social service facilities are expected to testify. Anyone wishing to testify should contact State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, at his legislative office, OR 3-6889, as soon as possible. The public is invited to the hearing.

Appliance industry probe set

The Federal Trade Commission announced Monday that it has authorized an investigation of the home-appliance industry.

The manufacturers of refrigerators, freezers and home laundry equipment will be scrutinized by the agency. Among the matters to be investigated are contracts between manufacturers and nonmanufacturers of these products; retail dealer relationships; sales to builders; foreign exports, and reasons for the apparent decline of firms in the industry.

Crane, Bensinger in Palatine

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and Peter Bensinger, Republican candidate for sheriff, will campaign at Palatine's Chicago and North Western Ry. station today.

Both candidates will attend a breakfast of the Northwest suburban municipal officials who are supporting Bensinger at 8 a.m. at the Palatine Holiday Inn.

'Crane Day' in Elk Grove Twp.

Elk Grove Township Republicans will conduct a "Congressman Philip M. Crane Day" Friday.

Crane will address a businessmen's luncheon at the Old Orchard Country Club, 700 W. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect, at noon, and will host a coffee at the Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, at 7:30 p.m.

All area residents are invited to attend the coffee, said Earl Lewis, coordinator of Crane's reelection campaign in the township.

Crane also is scheduled to speak to students at Elk Grove High School in the morning and will visit Magnus Farm in the afternoon.

Disclosure exemption asked

State Sen. Bradley M. Glass, R-Northbrook, has said he will join Senate Pres. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, in an effort to overturn a state ruling that established political committees be excluded from requirements for reporting the source and distribution of campaign contributions.

The State Board of Elections ruled recently that the new state campaign disclosure law may be applied only to committees acting in the name of a particular candidate. The ruling would make it possible for party central committees to receive anonymous donations and distribute them to individual candidates with no requirement for public disclosure.

Glass criticized Democrats on the board who voted for the ruling, and also scored Gov. Daniel Walker for remaining "strangely silent" on the ruling.

Ogilvie may be compromise chairman in RTA dispute urban bus companies and railroads. "If they (suburban members) can hold out until the CTA needs money, they will be in a better bargaining position," he said.

Although Totten doesn't approve of Ogilvie as chairman, some suburban board members feel Ogilvie is qualified as an administrator, if not as a transportation expert. The RTA bill calls for either a transportation expert or proven administrator.

Speculation about Ogilvie's candidacy came after he visited Mayor Daley last week to discuss the chairmanship issue. Ogilvie would not answer specific questions about his talk, but Monday he issued a statement that the suggestion of himself as chairman was a surprise. "I haven't given it much consideration, but I recognize the importance of the success of the RTA. I have obligations to my family, my law firm and clients, which I take very seriously."

IT HAS BEEN confirmed that Ogilvie did not interview with the RTA board, although one board member said his name came up a few times.

Suburban board member Jerry Boose of South Elgin said he considers the former governor a very capable administrator, but he knew nothing about suggestions that Ogilvie was being offered as a compromise candidate for chairman.

As for the board deadlock, he said, "In the long run all of us (on the board) want to get along together." He also said some persons have suggested the situation may change after the November elections.

The RTA board will have a public meeting Thursday, although no specific action has been announced.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Fishy falsecard can fool 'em

Some automatic plays are less automatic than others. The one shown today was first used by Harry Fishbein of New York, one of the great players back in the '30s. This isn't the exact hand but the principle involved is the same.

East wins the first trick with the king of spades and leads the suit back. The slam is a good one. South has already lost the spade finesse but will make his contract if he can score four club tricks.

He has a sure thing against any 3-2 club break — only a 4-1 break can hurt him. In the normal course of events he will play dummy's king of clubs and lead a club back to his ace because if East has four clubs to the jack-nine there is no way to pick the suit up.

East will show out on the second club. South will have a proven finesse against West's jack-nine and be home with the bacon.

When he defended the hand Fishbein played the nine of clubs on the first lead of the suit.

This falsecard gave South a chance to guard against four clubs to the jack in either hand. He fell for it like a ton of bricks. Played the second high club from dummy and went down one trick.

Hollywood: new capital of videoland

NEW YORK — Today, Hollywood is the capital of TV production. But in the 1950s New York sat on that throne — and the city jumped with the frantic pace of advertisers, show packagers and network officials.

"It was like a Turkish bazaar," said David Gerber of Columbia Pictures Television.

"It was really whacky and '21' was always filled with guys trying to work out deals. They were adventurers. Now, '21' is almost empty of the old guard."

GERBER IS EXECUTIVE vice president of Columbia's worldwide TV production. He also is the executive producer of "Police Story," "Police Woman," "Born Free" and "Nakia." He is known as a TV packager, a guy a network can come to for a show.

"In the old days, you could develop a show with your guts," said Gerber. "It was your emotions. There was more of a show-business atmosphere, theatrics. Now, it's computers, demographics and mass-media appeal."

The Brooklyn-born Gerber is a chunky man with the look of a street fighter. Nevertheless, he is a sensitive man who can handle a board of directors as smoothly as he can a gathering in a Brooklyn bar. This is class, something a lot of guys try to buy with a suit.

GERBER BEGAN HIS career in television by joining a New York advertising agency following his graduation from University of the Pacific. He later moved to Famous Artists and General Artists as

by Frank S. Swertlow

a TV packager. In January 1965 he became vice president in charge of sales at 20th Century-Fox TV. He then branched out on his own, producing such shows as "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" and "Nanny and the Professor."

"Things are more competitive, now," Gerber said. "In the old days, you could make a deal for an advertising agency or an advertiser. Today, there are three markets — the networks."

Gerber added that the network bosses, like production techniques, have changed since his days in New York.

"The guys now running the networks are a different breed. They know the numbers, the ratings, and they are dedicated to getting a show on. There are no more pockets of influence. But these kids are willing to take a chance, to gamble. And they always let you know where you stand."

ALTHOUGH GERBER feels comfortable with the new regime, he also had pleasant moments with the former power brokers of network programming. But others didn't, especially with CBS' James Aubrey, who was known as the "Smiling Cobra."

"There was a lot of fear among network executives," Gerber said. "Aubrey had no fear. He made decisions and stood by them. And a man who stands up and can make a decision in an atmosphere permeated by fear can go far." (United Press International)

Two teams, four players advance in golf tourney

by KEITH REINHARD

Prospect and Forest View collectively, and four other golfers individually, will compete in the state's sectional showdowns Oct. 18 after putting it all together in district competition last Friday.

The Tim Schaap-led Falcons fired a 319 to annex second place team honors at Lake Park's gathering while coach George Bork's Knights came in at 323 to earn a third place trophy at the Lake Forest meet.

Also advancing are Maine West's Scott Kisten and Scott Burkhardt of Rolling Meadows as well as Arlington's Ed Colleton and Mike Piton of St. Vitor.

Sparked by the medalist performance of Ron Romack, Forest View outdistanced 15 other clubs to earn their sectional berth, missing out to Dundee for top squad honors by a scant three strokes. Kisten, meanwhile, nearly hiked his Warrior team into the running single-handedly with a blazing one-over 36-37-72 effort that knotted initially for the number one medalist nod.

Kisten tied with Brian Bray of St. Ed and was subsequently nudged on the second hole of a playoff. Maine West came in at 324, losing out to Addison Trail for the third qualifying slot by two strokes.

Meadows, behind Burkhardt's strong showing, ranked third among area teams at the Indian Lakes layout and tied for eighth overall in the standings. Burkhardt and three others including Romack finished one stroke off the medalist pace at 74 and the Mustang then continued on with six straight pars in a playoff to snare the third place individual prize.

The Falcon tally was forged by Romack, Rick Keyser's 80, Henry Damiano's 82 and Jim Moran's 83. Other members of the team, Phil Roelofson, Mike Rice and Tom Butler, will also make the trip to Naperville's clash this Friday under state guidelines which allow the top three teams and five individuals including ties to move up.

At Lake Forest's par 72 Lake Bluff home course, it was the hosting Scouts at 303 pulling out ahead of Barrington for first place team laurels while Prospect led an eight-team tangle on the third qualifying slot.

Propelled by Steve Spielman's 77, the Knights came in nine away from second and seven other schools including four local teams were within six strokes of Lake.

Lake Forest's Bruce Habjan copped the blue ribbon medal handily with a 72 and Broncho Gary Hallberg carded a 75. Colleton and Piton turned in impressive 76s to stalemate at third and Spielman was involved in a three-way tie for fourth on the medalist ladder.

Added to Spielman's 77 were an 82 from Kevin Halvorson and 83s from Mike Ambrosio and Craig Ridley. Other participating Knights, who will join the scorers at McHenry's sectional clash Friday, were Paul Mounts, Pete Lund and Scott Spielmann.

Hersey, behind Kevin Krahn's 79 effort, and the Cards tied for fourth at Lake Forest three paces behind Prospect. Fremd and Glenbrook North came in at 329 and St. Vitor was knotted with Deerfield another stroke back.

Palatine, meanwhile, after taking a third at Lake Bluff in invitational competition a week earlier and subsequently wrapping of Mid-Suburban dual meet honors, slipped to a disappointing 11th place at 341.

Title fight League golf at Mount Prospect

by KEITH REINHARD
Golf Editor

Palatine will be prospect to dish out a little of Prospect's own 'back door' medicine at worst when the 13 units making up the Mid-Suburban League golf circuit gather at Mount Prospect Country Club today to settle the issue of a No. 1 team.

The Pirates take a solid two-point lead into the gathering, which counts for half in the overall standings, and coach Bill Schultz would like to see his charges repeat their performance of last October when they nudged out Hersey 323-324 for the MSL tourney crown.

In 1973 however, it was Prospect collecting first place in the dual meet ratings — which accounts for the other half in the overall frame of things. Even though the Knights subsequently settled for third in the conference meet at 325, they had enough in reserve to pick up the big crown.

Knight coach George Bork admitted at the time that his club came in the back door. The Pirates could very well do the same this time although there are others — a bunch of them — with contrasting ideas.

At least half a dozen squads and perhaps more have the potential of winning this event and the mere presence of so many qualified squads makes it difficult to project a likely champion. Last year when Palatine won it, the meet was conducted on their home Palatine Hills layout and the fact that it's on the course played by both Prospect and Forest View this year would put them in the driver's seat.

The Knights and Falcons are also fresh from qualifying for sectional playoffs and that could tend to enhance their momentum.

Hersey, No. 2 team in 1973 in both the dual meet ratings and the conference meet, has to be a top contender again and Fremd, Arlington and Buffalo Grove all finished with better than .500 loop records.

Still, the Schultz gang, led by Nick Zambone, Mike Sievers and Bob Capoun along with Scott Grant and Paul Thompson, has the best shot for overall honors . . . through any door. By finishing no worse than second today, they assure themselves of the title regardless of what anyone else does.

Palatine could finish third this afternoon and winning Huskies, Knights or Falcons would pick up no better than a tie for the overall throne. Only a complete Pirates collapse, in fact, could throw that main crown up for grabs.

Two off time is approximately 8 a.m. The frosh-soph championship tournament will be conducted at the same time on the Buffalo Grove Golf Course, hosted by Rolling Meadows.

Prospect soph runners top Libertyville Invite Prospect's sophomore cross country squad captured the soph title in last Saturday's Libertyville Invite as Knight harrier Matt Lawson took first place in 14:55 over the 2.8-mile layout at Libertyville's Adler Park.

The Knights defeated Fremd, which finished first in the varsity race, and several other tough teams, including Deerfield, Waukegan, and Maine West.

Prospect's Pat White was sixth, Jack Pittman was seventh, Tony Jennings was 10th and Dave Hayes finished 19th to round out the Knights' scoring. Other Prospect thincads were Bill Allen (40th) and Tim Soper (49th).

"This sophomore team is probably one of the better groups we've had here," said Knight coach Joe Wanner. "There was some pretty good soph competition at Libertyville."

Prospect's varsity runners, who ended the Mid-Suburban League dual season with a 5-7 record, took seventh at Libertyville without Lawson or White, who usually run with the upperclassmen. Wanner was satisfied with the performance.

"This has been one of the toughest years for cross country ever," the coach said. "This team is one of the best we've ever had."

scant second to win the individual title in 13:47 over the rain-dampened 2.8-mile course. Fieldhouse and Kinyon took third and fourth as Fremd captured the team trophy.

Grandpa Alston likes the show

OAKLAND — Nobody's enjoying this World Series more than one characteristically unexcited, undemonstrative 62-year-old grandfather.

"Maybe it's because this could be his last one."

Walt Alston says he doesn't know, he's not sure whether it will be or not.

Already there are buzzes going around that he has had enough after 21 years of managing the Dodgers, and that he'll quit if they beat the A's in this Series.

One story has it he already has notified the Dodgers of his intention to resign after the Series and that they now are giving serious thought to three candidates — Monty Basgall and Tommy Lasorda from their own coaching staff and Gene Mauch, whose managerial contract with Montreal has one more year to run after this one.

On the other side, Walt Alston is reported to be happier and healthier than at any time since he first began managing the Dodgers, when they were still in Brooklyn, in 1954. Supposedly not only anxious, but eager to come back next year.

Only Walt Alston knows what he's eventually going to do, and when somebody asked him point-blank before Sunday's 3-2 win over Oakland at Dodger Stadium, he replied:

"I honestly haven't made up my mind yet, and when I do, the first person I'll let know is Mr. Walter O'Malley."

Personally, I believe Walt Alston means exactly what he says because that has always been his track record from the first day he ever put a Dodger shirt on, and even a long time before that.

I think there is that possibility he might decide to retire if the Dodgers win it all, and I also have the feeling that he thought of growing bored to death doing nothing is still rattling around in his head, and that may push him to come back next year.

If he should leave, though, let's look at the three candidates to replace him.

Number one is dark horse Monty Basgall, the Dodgers' infield coach.

Basgall, 52, is in the Walt Alston image, a class guy whose association with the Dodgers spans 30 years and who managed for them in the minors and also scouted before moving back with them on the big club last year.

"Even if the job was offered to me, I wouldn't take it," says Basgall. "Managing tears me up too much inside. That's why I quit in the middle of the season at El Paso a couple of years ago. I'd lose a ball game, and I couldn't sleep. Actually, when and if Walt ever did leave, I think Tommy would be the man for the job."

A lot of other people think the same way as Monty Basgall when it comes to Tommy Lasorda.

The kids on the Dodgers love him, and they should because he helped send most of them to the big leagues. Kids like Steve Garvey, Ron Cey, Bill Russell, Dave Lopes, Steve Yeager, Bill Buckner and Joe Ferguson all played for the stocky 47-year-old Lasorda in the minors, and they'll tell you they don't come much better as a manager than he does.

Mauch seems happy where he is in Montreal.

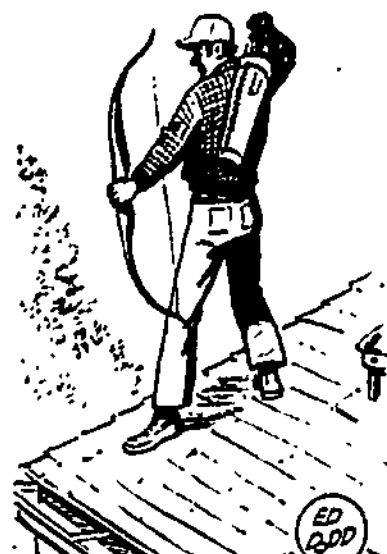

"We like to think of him as our manager now and for the future," says General Manager Jim Fanning. "I think the relationship among Gene, John Mellore and myself is such that if any overtures have been made for him to manage elsewhere, we'd know about it. We know of no such requests."

Meanwhile, Walt Alston continues to manage the Dodgers and enjoy the World Series.

Maine East's varsity soccer teams strung together successive wins last week, shutting out Wheaton Warrenville, 2-0, and Glenbrook North, 1-0. The Demons improved to 4-7 overall.

Bob Kosberg picked up East's only goal against Glenbrook and scored the first point against Wheaton on an assist from Lee Lannert. Bill Foster, assisted by Mike Tietz, scored Maine's second goal.

Gary Beard has played goalie for East whose only other wins are shutouts against Granite City and Niles West. The Demons hadn't won two straight until last week. Six-of-seven losses are by one goal.

Wonderful Auto World

PART II

THE INCREDIBLE, UNBELIEVABLE PERPLEXING, PROVOCATIVE, COMPLEX — SIMPLE — STRAIGHT LINE

PART B THE PRICE

COMPLEX THINGS MADE SIMPLE. AMERICA'S 779 TELEVISION STATIONS, 1,781 DAILY NEWSPAPERS AND 6,377 RADIO STATIONS INUNDATE 210 MILLION OF US WITH PLINY OF NEWS. SO MUCH SO THAT MANY OF US HAVE DEVELOPED A SCHIZOPHRENIA NOT FOUND IN PSYCHIATRIC TEXTBOOKS... A SIMULTANEOUS NEUROTIC BLASE ATTITUDE AND SUPERFICIAL UNDERSTANDING ABOUT WHAT IS REALLY GOING ON IN AMERICA AND THE WORLD. THE NEXT FEW WEEKS I'D LIKE TO TRY TO REDUCE SOME OF THIS MASS OF COMPLEX INFORMATION, THAT WHICH DIRECTLY AFFECTS THE AUTO BUSINESS, TO SOMETHING PEOPLE CAN UNDERSTAND.

I wonder, when I see the people the TV commentators interview on the nightly news, and hear them tell what a hard time they are having and how they just can't make ends meet and how the meat in the meat case just went up from $1.19 per pound to $1.24 if anyone really ever had an economist explain to people that PRICES REALLY NEVER CHANGE AT ALL.

You see, the lady complaining about the $.05 increase in meat checks out of the grocery line and pays for her groceries with her husband's net pay check of $216.00, drives off in her $162.00 a month payment 1974 station wagon to the prescription store where, for $5.50, she gets some penicillin for her daughter that kills a virus that at one time wiped out a million people at a time 300 years ago and drives home to her 29 electrical appliances to meet her husband who is just arriving in his own car. Both of them at once have their daily talk about how prices are going crazy — because the TV Commentator and newspaper both say so.

YES, THERE ARE PEOPLE IN AMERICA, IN THE WORLD WHO ARE HUNGRY, POOR, SICK, BUT I'M NOT TALKING ABOUT THE LACK OF MONEY BUT WHAT ONE GETS FOR WHAT MONEY ONE HAS. I'M REALLY SAYING THAT AFTER ALL THE HYSTERICAL NEWS REPORTS WE GET ABOUT HIGH PRICES, ALL PRICES GO INTO THE ECONOMIC BOOKS AS A STRAIGHT LINE, THE PRICE NEVER CHANGES.

I suppose some might say, those creepy economists ought to get out in the real world and buy something. They do. They bleed just like the rest of us when cut. They are just people who finally sum up, after all the SCREECHING NEWSPAPER HEADLINES AND HOT-EYED HATE-FILLED TV NEWS ANNOUNCEMENTS, that nothing really happened at all, that when wages and income and GNP and interest and productivity and product value increases and technology and all the rest are added up that blasted perplexing, provocative, incredible, unbelievable pound of meat that lady bought cost the same as it did in 1870 as it did in 1940 as it did in 1920 as it did in 1890 as it — ho hum.

Harper sharp in golf tuneup

The Northern Sectional Tournament is next for coach Roger Bechtold and his Harper crew after tuning up with a trio of wins Friday in non-conference junior college golf action.

The Hawk linksmen fired a 323, paced by Tom Eneaney's medalist display, to turn back DuPage, Illinois Valley and Blackhawk at Glen Ellyn's par-72 Village Links. Now they move into sectional qualifying action in Joliet today.

McEnerney carded a nifty 78 and was solidly supported by Brian Brown's 80, Rick Reed's 81 and Steve Loughman at 84 as Harper upped its overall dual meet log this season to 10-3. DuPage came in at 326, Blackhawk at 331 and Illinois Valley at 338.

A total of 17 teams are slated for competition today, at Joliet's Wedgewood layout. The best nine teams plus top individuals not covered will then advance to the state meet in Champaign.

Harper runs to seventh at feature in Milwaukee

The Harper cross country team took seventh place in the 16-team field at the Milwaukee Invitational meet, hosted by Milwaukee Tech Saturday.

The team championship was won by DuPage Junior College with 44 points, followed by Wright J.C. with 66 and Oakton Community College with 88.

Harper's 156 points placed them seventh behind fourth-place Triton J.C. (94), Lawrence College (142), and the College of Lake County (145).

Oakton, Triton, and Lake County are all members of the Skyway Conference, along with Harper, and with the conference meet set for Nov. 1, the Hawks will have a challenge on their hands if they wish to successfully defend their league cross country title.

Leading Harper's Hawks Saturday was freshman Mark Kimmert, who ran the five-mile course in 20:56 for a fifth-place finish. The individual winner was Ron Piro of DuPage in 25:53.

Other Hawks who scored were Bob Borucki, 28th in 29:19, Rick Reithal, 32nd in 29:50, Phil Flore, 43rd in 30:54, and Dennis Fagan, 48th in 31:27. Rounding out the Harper field were Rick Fortman in 51st place and Keith Jauch in 54th. Over 100 harriers were competing.

"We ran pretty well, our times were better," said Harper coach Bob Nolan.

"And Kimmert did well. He ran a strong race. The four kids ahead of Mark were from our region."

Nolan's concern is for the Region IV meet, coming up Oct. 26 and to be hosted by Harper at Palatine Hills.

But the Hawk coach was pleased with his harriers' performance Saturday against a strong field of two-and four-year schools.

Wednesday the Hawks will host a dual meet at Palatine Hills and then on Saturday they will run at the DuPage Invite, an appointment Nolan's boys have been looking forward to for several weeks.

"We'll get a look at some of the stronger teams in Region IV," said Nolan, who hopes that one or more of his harriers will be able to qualify for the nationals Oct. 26. "The DuPage meet is a kind of preview to the region meet."

INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI) — When Denver had to withdraw as host city for the 1976 winter Olympics because of lack of funds, the games quickly were awarded to this 740-year-old city in the Alps. Innsbruck staged the 1964 Olympics and, for the most part, will run 1976 events on existing facilities.

MANAGEMENT EXECUTIVE RECRUITER ENTRY LEVEL
We aren't going to tell you a lot of different stories about how easy the job is or that you can make $25,000 in your first year. What we are going to say is — if you want a job that offers hard work, a job with a challenge, a job with a future, a job where you can earn $12-$15,000 the first year, then let's discuss your future. We promise nothing but hard work, and self-achieved monetary rewards. All we ask is that you have a desire to succeed. If you feel that you are this type of person, call ing a deadlock on the RTA board. At least one suburban mayor, Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, has heard from Chicago Deputy Mayor Kenneth Sain with a pitch for Pikarsky. Behrel has supported Pikarsky and is considering cooperating with the city to get buses to Des Plaines. Behrel agreed he would probably support Pikarsky, but said he has also been contacted by Barney Cunningham, transportation consultant and former mayor of Park Forest, who also is interested in the post.

Move to elect Pikarsky RTA head draws bitter reaction

Daley injects Chicago power politics into deadlock over chairman

A power play engineered by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is reaching into the suburbs in an effort to have CTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky named head of the Regional Transportation Authority.

didates have withdrawn for political reasons, because of Pikarsky's eligibility. "Why is it so important to the mayor that he have Pikarsky on the RTA? You know what he is going to do to the suburbs," Totten said. "Pikarsky doesn't even know where Schaumburg Township is."

Richard Ogilvie would be a good compromise candidate. The four suburban board members are believed to prefer former American Airlines president George A. Warde. "It's obvious they're floating him (Ogilvie) as a trial balloon, as a compromise candidate, but that's not much better than Pikarsky," Totten said. He described the situation as political now, adding that he has talked with suburban RTA board members Joseph Tecson and D. Daniel Baldino about the deadlock.

For low, moderate-income persons Village won't take stand on housing plan of the 800 would be built in Wheeling. Henry Zuba, a representative of the housing coalition, said the number of units for each suburb has not been decided. He said, however, that several communities have adopted resolutions supporting the construction of 100 units. Village board members said that before they commit the village to the plan, they want a better definition of low and moderate-income housing.

The Wheeling Village Board Monday night decided to take no position on a proposed low and moderate-income housing plan for the Northwest suburbs. The board in a 5-to-1 decision directed Village Pres. Ted Scanlon not to vote Wednesday at a meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference where the housing proposal is scheduled for discussion.

Zuba said recent legislation and court decisions lean favorably toward subsidized housing. Wheeling should participate so it can have some say in the planning process, he said. Trustee Albert Lang said he favors the proposal and thinks the village should indicate a willingness Wednesday to take part in the program. "I think everybody's got a right to decent housing no matter where they live," he said. In other action, the board rejected two bids for construction of a parking lot adjacent to the municipal building to serve a planned branch of Circuit Court to be held in the village board chambers. Officials estimated the work could be done for about $15,000 less than the $64,900 and $73,200 bids that were received. Delay in construction of the parking lot has prevented opening of the local court branch.

Clears way for Jeffery project Meadowbrook access road work completed today?

Construction of a temporary access road to the Meadowbrook West subdivision is expected to be completed today, clearing the way for replacement of the Jeffery Avenue bridge. Trustee William Hein, chairman of the sewer, water and public health committee, Monday said he is hopeful the entire Jeffery Avenue project will be completed by the end of the year. The temporary road must be installed before work on the bridge is begun because the bridge is the only access to the subdivision. The road connects Nancy Lane and Carpenter Avenue.

ers will widen the Wheeling Drainage Ditch. The work, which is expected to relieve flooding in the area, will consist of moving the creek banks closer to neighboring property lines. Many of the trees along the creek will be removed, and the upper banks will be sodded. Residents and village officials reached agreement several weeks ago on the planned improvements. Residents earlier complained that the creek work would cause the loss of property and trees, which might cause erosion and flooding of their backyards. Hein said agreement has been reached on which trees will be removed and the village has assured residents that none of their property will be taken as a result of the improvement project.

WHIP to elect officers Wednesday

The Wheeling Improvement Party (WHIP) will elect officers and review its bylaws at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Jack London Junior High School, 1001 W. Dundee Rd. Although voting will be limited to WHIP members, the public is invited. Trustee Donald Jackson, a member of WHIP, will be at the meeting to answer questions on village affairs and discuss Trustee John Koeppen's proposal to divide the village into six election districts. Koeppen made the proposal last week, saying that electing a trustee or alderman from each district would guarantee equal representation throughout the village. Trustees currently are elected at-large and most now live in one section of town. WHIP has not yet taken an official stand on Koeppen's proposal. "We need to study the pros and cons and determine the feelings of the people," said WHIP chairman, Harold Fagan. "I'm sure we'll get some interesting comments at the meeting on Wednesday."

Township man held in murder of roommate

A former unincorporated Wheeling Township resident is being held without bail by sheriff's police in connection with the October 1973 murder of his roommate. William Mahon, 20, formerly of 741 Piper Ln., was charged Friday with the murder of Charles Watts, 19. Police said Mahon had been sought since November 1973 and estimated he has traveled 20,000 miles during the last year, using aliases to elude police. Police said Mahon was charged with murder and concealing a murder.

For dropouts, underachievers New program gives teens a second chance to learn

by BOB GALLAS

John, a high school dropout from a broken home, was described by his teachers as a nonattending, nonconforming, unmotivated student with a poor chance for success. Despite his classical description as an underachiever with a variety of learning problems, John decided to return to school two years after dropping out and was accepted back by High School Dist. 214. A year later, John was "involved, motivated, making reasonable grades" and even joined the track team en route to graduation. A few years ago, the story might have been different — John would have been turned away or just "pushed along" to graduation. TODAY, HOWEVER, dropouts, underachievers and others are receiving special help in a new Dist. 214 program aimed at helping students with learning problems get back into the mainstream. "It used to be that we'd say, 'We have done everything we can for the student,'" said Richard Stanowski, head of pupil services at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights. "Now we ask, 'Have we done everything we can for the students?'"

The program is called the Individual Resource Program and it is being used districtwide after a one-year pilot program at Elk Grove High School. It provides individualized help for students with poor reading ability, social immaturity, poor motivation, lack of skills in a particular area or any other problem that hinders the student from functioning properly in class. STUDENTS ARE given special help on a variety of levels, starting during their free time and progressing to permanent removal from class to work with a specialist. A forerunner of the program, the Cooperative Work Agreement, offered special classes for underachievers at the freshman and sophomore levels only. The present program has been expanded to accommodate juniors and seniors as well as average students and those with special learning abilities. "Experience showed us that the old program was good for 50 per cent of the kids, who were in it, but the other 50 per cent still had problems," said David Whiteside, district coordinator of special education services. "Besides, you don't always stimulate and change in two years, when the pattern has been set for 10 years."

INDIVIDUAL HELP is the aim of the Individual Resource program, getting started this year at all High School Dist. 214 schools. Buffalo Grove High School English teacher, Donna McVey, helps students with their speech class work, with the aid of a tape recorder. The recorder allows the students to hear how they sound and helps improve delivery.

ALTHOUGH there are about 1,100 students in the Individual Resource Program this year, other students sometimes feel the advantage of the resource center. At Forest View, aides are available to any classroom teachers who might need help at a particular time, for example, a biology teacher might need help during a lab project. "They (aides) are on loan like a library book," Stanowski said. While the program has basic guidelines, schools individualize their own program to fit the needs of their students. At Hersey High School, special classes are set up in the basic subjects required of freshmen such as biology, math and English in addition to the option classes in home economics, woods, metals and graphics. A student with a problem in only one subject area will enroll only in one class, while another student may be involved in four of the classes. DAVID TOEPKE, Individual Resources Program coordinator at Hersey said he doesn't feel the classes attach any stigma to the students. "I think the general student population doesn't even know the IR program exists," said Toepke. "Besides, it's a funny thing. Students seem to know where they are regardless of whether you group them or not." The Hersey program also involves the parents in weekly discussion seminars, mainly dealing with family communications. Perhaps the most important part of the program is "the teachers who volunteer for it," according to Thomas Hansen, head of pupil services at Elk Grove High School. As with the students who make up the program, participation also is voluntary on the part of the teachers. While administrators say it's too early to tell about the success of the program, some success is obvious: the resource room is a beehive of activity for students who usually have one thing in common — an interest in what they're doing.

'Average' teacher holds a master's

The average teacher in High School Dist. 214 is a 33-year-old man, holds a master's degree, has been teaching nine years and makes close to $16,000.

That composite picture is drawn from data in the district's 1974-75 annual personnel report prepared by Robert Cudney, director of instructional staffing.

According to the report, which is used to assess patterns in the makeup of the staff, the district is "growing academically." Last year, statistics showed that 47 district teachers had earned a master's degree plus 60 hours credit toward a doctorate, or had attained a doctorate degree. In 1972-73, only 28 had done so.

This year, 74 of the district's 1,044 teachers, or about 7 per cent, have earned a master's and either have a doctorate or have 60 hours credit toward a doctorate.

Sixty nine per cent of all district teachers have earned a master's degree or more.

ALTHOUGH THE district hired more female than male teachers this year, the number of female resignations increased the percentage of male teachers on the staff from 61 to 63 per cent.

The district received 3,001 applications, up 1,000 from last year, for only 129 jobs.

About one-third of the new staff consists of teachers new to Dist. 214, according to Cudney's report. About 40 per cent of the new staff holds advanced degrees.

Salaries of new teachers jumped from $10,078 last year to $11,595 this year. Cudney's report cited the teacher salary increase and an interest in hiring more experienced teachers as the reason for the increase.

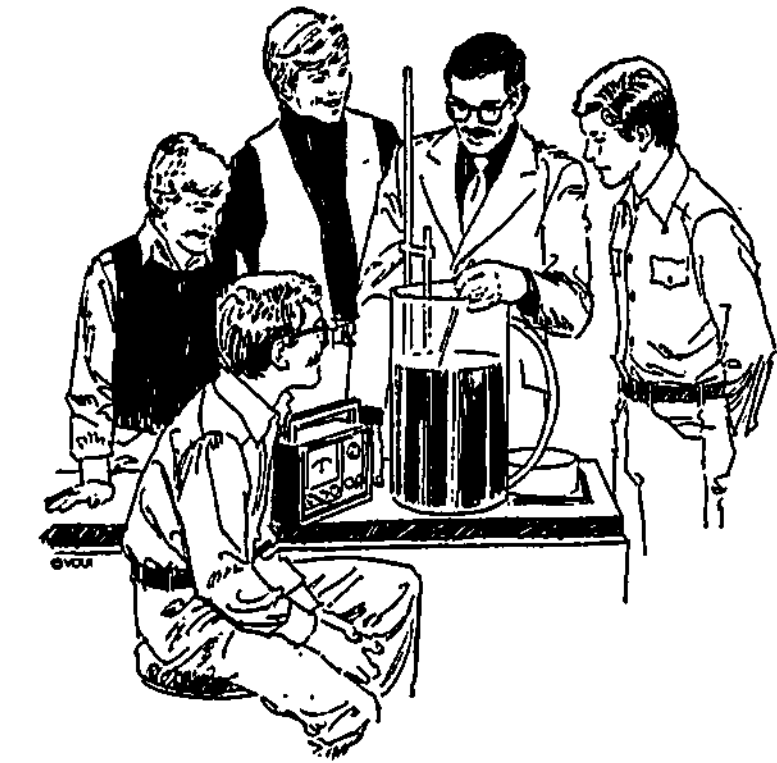

NEW TEACHERS at Wheeling High School average the highest salaries

($12,811), followed by Buffalo Grove ($11,999), Forest View ($11,692), Prospect ($11,570), Rolling Meadows ($11,334), Elk Grove ($10,948), Arlington ($10,818), and Hersey ($10,700).

Of the new staff, 55 graduated from either Northern Illinois University or the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. The rest come from colleges and universities across the country.

The most popular subject area applied for by teachers was English, with 553 applications, and physical education, with 506 applicants.

According to the report, there was an increased number of applicants for every area, with the exception of industrial arts, "which continues to be a very difficult area in which to find quality candidates." Only 57 people applied for industrial arts positions.

Repairs planned at Buffalo Grove, Dundee roads

Buffalo Grove Road will be closed at Dundee Road in about two to three weeks while road improvements are being made on the north side of the intersection.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said a date for improvements was still pending, but work crews will close down the entrance to northbound Buffalo Grove Road during widening of the intersection and installation of a median strip.

ALTHOUGH DUNDEE will remain

Prospect Heights man charged with battery

A 25-year-old Prospect Heights man was charged Sunday by Wheeling police with battery and criminal trespass after an incident in a Wheeling woman's apartment.

Arrested was Lee A. Vivirito, 417 Willow Rd., who police said grabbed and slapped Kay Wroblewski, 575 Fairway View Dr., and refused to leave her apartment. The arrest was made at 6:03 p.m.

Police said Vivirito was released on $1,000 bond and is to appear Nov. 19 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Harper board to weigh campus financing plans

Willard A. Brown, a senior vice president of Arthur Rubloff and Co., will discuss Harper College's plans to develop a second campus with the college's board of trustees tonight.

Last month, the Illinois Community College Board cleared the way for Harper to acquire 90 acres for a second campus at the northeast corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Arlington Heights.

The 90 acres would be carved out of a 142-acre section of land owned by the Mayo Foundation of Rochester, Minn.

The meeting with Brown is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in Room A-242B at the college, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine. After the public meeting, the board is scheduled to meet in closed-door session to discuss various means of acquiring the 90-acre site.

It is generally believed that the college will have to pass a referendum to raise the money to buy the land. However, Harper Board Pres. William Kelly told the Arlington Heights Village Board last week that there may be other ways to acquire the property.

open, Buffalo Grove Road traffic will be detoured during the period and motorists will have to use Golfview Terrace as an alternate route, said Larson.

The work is part of the overall Dundee Road widening project, which includes expansion of the road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53 through Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Arlington Heights. The construction, ongoing since 1972, will cost some $3 million.

Project contractors and village officials estimate the Buffalo Grove portion of Dundee Road will be complete late next month.

Village officials were also waiting to hear, possibly this week, on final state approval from some $8,000 to $10,000 in savings on the Dundee median compromise to be used for landscaping part of the dividers.

The savings stems from a recent agreement among village officials, business and community leaders on a design including sections of mountable and landscaped medians along the Buffalo Grove stretch of Dundee Road, some two miles.

The savings comes largely from the use of topsoil rather than asphalt on most of the divider, according to state officials.

Police arrest Northbrook men

Wheeling police arrested two Northbrook men for possession of marijuana Sunday.

Arrested in the Sunday incident were Robert C. Kuehne, 20, and John R. Aitken, 17. Both also were charged with transporting open liquor in a vehicle. They were arrested at 12:49 a.m. when police stopped their car at 550 N. McHenry Rd. to check if they were in violation of the village's curfew ordinance.

Bond for both Kuehne and Aitken was set at $1,000 and each is to appear Oct. 29 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

In other drug arrests, James M. Manago, 21, of 830 Old Willow Rd., Prospect Heights, was charged at 12:20 a.m. Saturday with possession of marijuana, after Wheeling police stopped his car for improper display of license plates, police said.

Police stopped Manago's vehicle on Dundee Road near the police station, 255 W. Dundee Rd. His court date and bond were unavailable.

About half hour after Manago's arrest Saturday, police arrested two Mount Prospect teenagers for possession of marijuana, after police stopped their car for having no headlights on.

Both Donald J. Singer, 18, of 11 N. Edward St., and Steven T. Thours, 18, of 508 N. Main St., were released on $1,000 bond and are to appear Oct. 29 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

plains opposition to the Miller Builders development. The village board tabled further action on the project.

Long Grove petition rips Miller annex

Long Grove residents presented petitions Monday night to the Buffalo Grove Village Board objecting to plans by Miller Builders Inc. to construct a 415-housing development.

Petitions bearing the signatures of 125 residents who live near the Miller site were presented to the board. The board, however, tabled action on the matter until a court challenge to the annexation is settled.

Long Grove Village Pres. Robert Coffin said village attorneys are seeking to have overturned a Lake County Circuit Court decision allowing Buffalo Grove to annex the Miller property. A hearing on the Long Grove objection has been scheduled for Nov. 12.

Miller hopes to build 415 houses and townhouses on a 149-acre site east of Old Hicks Road about one-quarter mile west of Schaffner Road between Old Chicago Road and the Lake-Cook county line.

COFFIN TOLD the board the Miller plans were a "radical departure from the type of development that has been in our master plan." The three-unit per acre density, he said, conflicts with the Long Grove master plan, which calls for only one housing unit on two acres.

Coffin also said the development would penetrate more than a mile into the village's sewer system. Referring to traffic increases that could result on Checker Road because of the development, he called the road "quite inadequate for that kind of traffic."

He said the property is an "area we are vitally interested in — we respectfully register our opposition."

THE LARGEST group of petitioners come from Country Club Estates, a subdivision slightly north of the property. Two other petitions were circulated among residents along Checker Road and unincorporated areas of Lake County that border the site.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong told the Long Grove representatives their objections would be given "very serious consideration."

If the board decides to consider the Miller request, the matter would be referred to the plan commission.

Coffin said Long Grove officials probably will participate in further discussions of the Miller plans. Representatives of the Miller firm did not appear at Monday night's session.

Move to elect Pikarsky RTA head draws bitter reaction

Daley injects Chicago power politics into deadlock over chairman

RICHARD J. DALEY

by STEVE FORSYTH

A power play engineered by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is reaching into the suburbs in an effort to have CTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky named head of the Regional Transportation Authority. Daley's office reportedly is making phone calls to suburban mayors asking them to pressure suburban members of the RTA board into a quick decision on the chairman, theoretically resulting in selection of Pikarsky.

At least one suburban mayor, Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, has heard from Chicago Deputy Mayor Kenneth Sain with a pitch for Pikarsky. Behrel has supported Pikarsky and is considering cooperating with the city to get buses to Des Plaines. Behrel agreed he would probably support Pikarsky, but said he has also been contacted by Barney Cunningham, transportation consultant and former mayor of Park Forest, who also is interested in the post.

TOTTEN, WHO WAS opposed to formation of the RTA last March, said the four city members of the RTA board are committed to Pikarsky, and are causing a deadlock. He also said other good candidates have withdrawn for political reasons, because of Pikarsky's eligibility. "Why is it so important to the mayor that he have Pikarsky on the RTA? You know what he is going to do to the suburbs," Totten said. "Pikarsky doesn't even know where Schaumburg Township is."

Richard Ogilvie would be a good compromise candidate. The four suburban board members are believed to prefer former American Airlines president George A. Warde. "It's obvious they're floating him (Ogilvie) as a trial balloon, as a compromise candidate, but that's not much better than Pikarsky," Totten said. He described the situation as political now, adding that he has talked with suburban RTA board members Joseph Tetonson and D. Daniel Baldino about the deadlock.

Prairie preservation project

C&NW agrees to weigh nature area plan

Parks, city officials to discuss land buy at meeting tonight

Des Plaines city and park district officials will get together tonight to discuss possible city purchase of park property for downtown redevelopment. The meeting will be the first formal joint session between the two groups since the suggestion for the city to buy park property on Pearson Street for the proposed $14-million Superblock project was put forth more than a year ago. Mayor Herbert H. Behrel and the city's 16 aldermen have been invited to the 8 p.m. meeting at the park district office, 748 Pearson St., in an attempt to establish a purchase price for the property. THE CITY HAS offered the park district $133,000 for the property, which includes the park district's administrative office and a garage facility. Park officials have rejected the offer, stating the cost to replace the 11,000-square-foot structure would be between $300,000 and $500,000. Park district officials told the city council last week the city's offer would have to be increased, but there was no immediate indication that a greater amount would be forthcoming. Robert Kunkel, park district director, said Monday all members of the council have been invited to attend tonight's meeting, but he had no indication of how many would be present. Kunkel said Behrel will be present. Kunkel said the meeting will mark the first time the council as a whole will meet with the park board. Until now negotiations have been handled by the mayor acting on authority from the council. The park board has forwarded its decisions to the mayor through Kunkel. KUNKEL SAID CITY officials will be taken on a tour of the administration office tonight before negotiating begins. Behrel said last week the city might increase its offer for the land but he doubted the figure would be high enough to cover the cost of replacing the park district facility. The mayor noted that the city might be able to sell bonds more easily than the park district to help ease the financial burden. Under such an agreement the city would sell the bonds but the park district would repay the debt through its operating funds. The park district by law cannot sell its land outright without a referendum. If such a referendum is passed, the land must be sold at public auction if the park district is unable to trade it for land of equal value.

Officials of the Chicago and North Western Ry. have agreed to review a request to maintain a tract of land in Des Plaines for a prairie preservation project. In a letter to Roger Matteson, one of the leaders of an effort to preserve the 25-acre site for a nature area, railroad officials agreed to reexamine their decision not to turn the land over to some local agency. I. Robert Bullin, C&NW's vice president for material and real estate, said the operations and safety sections of the railroad would consider the proposal. LOCAL RESIDENTS have attempted to convince the railroad to turn over the land so that it could be maintained as a natural prairie area. The parcel, which is near the Weibold's distribution center south of Northwest Highway, is believed to be one of the few virgin prairie areas left in northern Illinois. When the railroad turned down the proposal in August, it gave no explanation for the move. Local preservationists and officials of the Des Plaines Bicentennial Commission were critical of the railroad's response in the matter. The commission had been considering adoption of the project as an official city effort in connection with the celebration of the nation's 200th birthday. Bullin said that a special corporation may have to be established to take over the property if it is given up by the railroad. A portion of the property now is being used as an equipment-storage area, but the majority of the land is vacant. RAILROAD OFFICIALS have expressed concern about safety and security in the area because the land is surrounded by several rail lines. Supporters of the project have noted that the prairie contains many natural plants and grasses which were once unique to Illinois. James Androff, another supporter of the project, said the condition of the soil and other conditions would make it impossible to transplant the vegetation to other areas. Androff and others hope that if the land is used as a nature area, educational programs could be developed for local residents and schoolchildren.

Unit probes schools' financial future

A 10-member committee tonight will begin taking an in-depth look at the financial future of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. The committee consists of principals, teachers, citizens and members of the board of education. Board member Albert Domanico, chairman of the committee, said it will present alternatives to the board on how to maintain the district's present level of programming in view of an anticipated 60 per cent drop in state aid in about two years. The district received about $3.2 million in state aid last year. This year state aid increased to about $4.2 million, but is expected to start decreasing in about two years when the formula for determining state aid is changed. DIST. 59 is being hit hard financially by the new aid formula, which is based primarily on student enrollment and local tax effort. The district is caught in the bind of having a declining enrollment and a low tax levy, which means less money from the state. "We won't be making any recommendations, just presenting all the alternatives," said Domanico.

Two district teachers, two principals, two board members and four members of the general public will serve on the committee. Domanico and fellow board member Paul Kucharski will represent the board and pick committee members. Three of four members of the public have been chosen including Joseph Stecker; Chris Glasgow, president of the Bank of Rolling Meadows, and Robert Melroy, a lawyer. Domanico said the fourth member has not been picked, but could be Mead Killian of Elk Grove Village. KILLIAN MADE a presentation at the last meeting of the board and said the tax base of the district will eventually be large enough that the district will not have to rely on state aid for operating funds. Killian suggested that the district determine whether it can borrow enough money to make it until that time, about four years from now. Domanico called Killian's projections a "remarkable job," that "comes very close." However, Domanico added some figures in the projections were incorrect. The meeting, which will start at 7:30 p.m. in the district administrative center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., will be the first of about four to be held each week at the same time.

East Maine Caucus seeks group members

Organizations interested in selecting school board candidates for East Maine Dist. 63 and Maine Township High School Dist. 207 should send credentials to the East Maine Township General Caucus before Oct. 24. Credentials must be filed with committee chairman Jerrold Ezgur, 100 N. LaSalle St., Chicago. The caucus is scheduled to meet at 8 p.m. Oct. 24 at Gemini Junior High School, Greenwood and Ballard, Niles. Groups eligible to join include PTAS, civic, homeowner and religious organizations, a majority of whose members reside within the boundaries of the two school districts. Each accredited organization may appoint two delegates and two alternates. For further information, contact Ezgur at 346-4448.

KAREN AND MARY RAU take their dancing very seriously as they work on improving their ballet form at a Des Plaines Park District class. The class for and 5-year-olds meets weekly at Rand Park. Ballet classes for younger and older children also are part of the fall program.

Loss of charter threatened

Female Kiwanian thrilled by support of local club

Mary Clark, the only woman member of the Elk Grove Kiwanis, said Monday she is delighted with the chapter's decision to fight orders from the international organization to ban women from the Kiwanis.

Miss Clark, administrative librarian of the Elk Grove Village Public Library, said she was gratified by the majority vote Saturday to keep her name on the rolls despite the threat that the local club may lose its charter.

ONE INTERNATIONAL Kiwanis official, Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, was quoted as saying he did not consider Saturday's vote "final."

Myerson denied making the statement Monday, saying he would not comment on further action that might be taken by Kiwanis International until after a meeting with local Kiwanians scheduled for Saturday.

"After I speak in an official capacity with them (Elk Grove Kiwanis members) and inform them of the rules and regulations, they must operate under, we'll proceed from there," Myerson said.

RICHARD HARRELL, president of the local chapter, would say only that the group had met, rendered its decision on the matter and reported it to the proper authorities.

Miss Clark said she considers the vote final.

Miss Clark said she has offered to resign, but only at the request of the Elk Grove chapter.

"I feel perhaps Kiwanis International is trying to diminish the strength of local clubs by not including women," she said. "The local group has said they feel they need women like me and I don't think International can interpret the needs of the community."

Officer donates her kidney so sister can live

Kathy Miller, one of Des Plaines' three new women police patrolmen, will return to duty next month minus one kidney, but she is comforted in the knowledge that because of it, her sister is alive and looking forward to a healthy life.

Mrs. Miller, 23, last week donated her right kidney to her ailing sister, Marilyn Belmont, 30, of Gurnee. In an operation at Billings Hospital, Chicago, the hospital said Monday both women are doing well and "on the road to recovery."

Mrs. Belmont had been suffering from terminal kidney disease for some time, her sister said Monday, and it was just a question of time as to when she would need a kidney donor.

Mrs. Miller said she had been prepared to offer one of her kidneys to save her sister's life.

Mrs. Miller said she and her sister may be released from the hospital shortly, possibly by the end of the week. She will not return to duty on the police force until next month, she said.

Mrs. Miller is one of three women to join the force this year. Other new policewomen are Mary Mundell and Kathryn Hammer.

The women recently completed training at the Police Training Institute of the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana and on-the-street patrol training with Des Plaines' officers before assuming squad-car duty last month.

Mrs. Miller is a one-time dance major at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle. She became interested in police work through her husband, who has a background in criminal justice.

LWV to tell manager stand

The Des Plaines Chapter of the League of Women Voters will announce its stand on the question of creating a city manager form of government at Mayor Herbert H. Behrel's weekly press conference this morning.

Representatives of the league plan to present Behrel with the first copy of a report detailing LWV recommendations on several possible changes in local government. Additional copies will be available to the public at the city clerk's office and the Des Plaines Public Library.

The report reflects the consensus of the group on options that have been suggested for reorganizing city government. The recommendations follow several months of research by an LWV study group that obtained input from older men, city government department heads and their assistants and residents.

Besides looking at the possibility of hiring a city manager, the study group has also considered alterations in the duties of city clerk, treasurer and reorganizing the aldermanic system.

The LWV plans to give a slide presentation on the preparation of its report at a meeting of the city council's code and judiciary committee set for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Des Plaines City Hall, 1412 Miner St. The meeting is open to the public.

Park district appoints recreation supervisor

Ron Ault has been appointed recreation supervisor for men's and boys' activities and aquatic programming for the Des Plaines Park District.

Ault recently received his master's degree in recreation and park administration from the University of Illinois after several years in business. He also served with the Navy.

Ault replaces Charles Blodeau, who resigned to accept a teaching position at Algonquin Junior High School in Des Plaines.

New program gives teens a second chance to learn

by BOB GALLAS

John, a high school dropout from a broken home, was described by his teachers as a nonattending, nonconforming, unmotivated student with a poor chance for success.

Despite his classical description as an underachiever with a variety of learning problems, John decided to return to school two years after dropping out and was accepted back by High School Dist. 214.

A year later, John was "involved, motivated, making reasonable grades" and even joined the track team en route to graduation.

A few years ago, the story might have been different — John would have been turned away or just "pushed along" to graduation.

TODAY, HOWEVER, dropouts, underachievers and others are receiving special help in a new Dist. 214 program aimed at helping students with learning problems get back into the mainstream.

"It used to be that we'd say, 'We have done everything we can for the student,'" said Richard Stanowski, head of pupil services at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights. "Now we ask, 'Have we done everything we can for the students?'"

The program is called the Individual Resource program and it is being used districtwide after a one-year pilot program at Elk Grove High School.

It provides individualized help for students with poor reading ability, social immaturity, poor motivation, lack of skills in a particular area or any other problem that hinders the student from functioning properly in class.

STUDENTS ARE given special help on a variety of levels, starting during their free time and progressing to permanent removal from class to work with a specialist.

A forerunner of the program, the Cooperative Work Agreement, offered special classes for underachievers at the freshman and sophomore levels only. The present program has been expanded to accommodate juniors and seniors as well as average students and those with special learning abilities.

"Experience showed us that the old program was good for 50 per cent of the kids, who were in it, but the other 50 per cent still had problems," said David Whiteside, district coordinator of special education services. "Besides, you don't always stimulate and change in two years, when the pattern has been set for 10 years."

THE INDIVIDUAL Resource Program revolves around a "resource center" at every school, staffed with learning disabilities teachers, counselors, teachers with special training in a subject area, and aides.

Students can use the center to study for a test, meet with a teacher or counselor for help, take advantage of study materials or, in some cases, just relax and play a game of table hockey with a fellow student.

In addition to academic help, the program also tries to help the student with nonacademic problems.

INDIVIDUAL HELP is the aim of the Individual Resource program, getting started this year at all High School Dist. 214 schools. Buffalo Grove High School English teacher, Donna

For example, a girl with a poor self-image at Forest View might be put to work in a nursery school next door to the school. Through a cooperative agreement, the girl becomes a nursery school teacher.

"The little kids begin to rely on her and look up to her," said Stanowski. "It helps her image and builds her ego."

ALTHOUGH there are about 1,100 students in the Individual Resource Program this year, other students sometimes feel the advantage of the resource center.

At Forest View, aides are available to any classroom teachers who might need help at a particular time, for example a biology teacher might need help during a lab project.

"They (aides) are on loan like a library book," Stanowski said.

While the program has basic guidelines, schools individualize their own program to fit the needs of their students.

At Hersey High School, special classes are set up in the basic subjects required of freshmen such as biology, math and English in addition to the option classes in home economics, woods, metals and graphics.

A student with a problem in only one subject area will enroll only in one class, while another student may be involved in four of the classes.

DAVID TOEPKE, Individual Resources Program coordinator at Hersey said he doesn't feel the classes attach any stigma to the students.

"I think the general student population doesn't even know the IR program exists," said Toepke. "Besides, it's a funny thing. Students seem to know where they are regardless of whether you group them or not."

The Hersey program also involves the parents in weekly discussion seminars, mainly dealing with family communications.

Perhaps the most important part of the program is "the teachers who volunteer for it," according to Thomas Hansen, head of pupil services at Elk Grove High School. As with the students who make up the program, participation also is voluntary on the part of the teachers.

While administrators say it's too early to tell about the success of the program, some success is obvious: the resource room is a beehive of activity for students who usually have one thing in common — an interest in what they're doing.

The local scene

Flowers abound at library

The white sweet alyssum, red salvia and yellow marigolds that make up the flowerbeds and borders surrounding the Des Plaines Public Library's parking lot were donated by the Des Plaines Garden Club.

The job of transplanting the flowers in time for dedication ceremonies of the library's addition was undertaken by club members Jeanne Robertson, Terry Wisniewski, Suzanne Olson and Elinor Raeth and her father, Mrs. Wisniewski and Mrs. Raeth also are co-chairmen of the civic and environment commission.

Hospital volunteers get pins

Lutheran General Hospital's Junior Volunteers, teen-agers who help in various areas of the hospital, were recently honored by the hospital's service league. Award pins were presented to Ellen Gorosnik, 100 hours; Kathy Erickson, 250 and 500 hour pins; Kathy Elsemann, 100 hours; Jean Pullman, 100 and 250 hour pins; and Becky Borsch, 100 hours.

Also, Judy Brondsema, 500 hours; Kathryn Mallory, 250 hours; Beth Erickson and Donna Flug, 100 hours; Cindy Curtis, 250 hours; and Mary Heller, 100 hours. All are from Des Plaines.

Signup continues for Oakton class

Registration will continue through Friday for a class at Oakton Community College in "how to study." The six-week class will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 8:15 p.m.

The course will help students prepare for examinations, organize their time and become a more efficient student. Further information is available from Ruth Turiel, assistant professor of communications at Oakton.

Move to elect Pikarsky RTA head draws bitter reaction

RICHARD J. DALEY

Daley injects Chicago power politics into deadlock over chairman

by STEVE FORSYTH

A power play engineered by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is reaching into the suburbs in an effort to have CTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky named head of the Regional Transportation Authority. Daley's office reportedly is making phone calls to suburban mayors asking them to pressure suburban members of the RTA board into a quick decision on the chairman, theoretically resulting in selection of Pikarsky.

ing a deadlock on the RTA board.

At least one suburban mayor, Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, has heard from Chicago Deputy Mayor Kenneth Sain with a pitch for Pikarsky. Behrel has supported Pikarsky and is considering cooperating with the city to get buses to Des Plaines. Behrel agreed he would probably support Pikarsky, but said he has also been contacted by Barney Cunningham, transportation consultant and former mayor of Park Forest, who also is interested in the post.

TOTTEN, WHO WAS opposed to formation of the RTA last March, said the four city members of the RTA board are committed to Pikarsky, and are causing a deadlock. He also said other good candidates have withdrawn for political reasons, because of Pikarsky's eligibility.

"Why is it so important to the mayor that he have Pikarsky on the RTA? You know what he is going to do to the suburbs," Totten said. "Pikarsky doesn't even know where Schaumburg Township is."

The issue has been further clouded by recent suggestions that former Gov.

Richard Ogilvie would be a good compromise candidate. The four suburban board members are believed to prefer former American Airlines president George A. Wardo.

"It's obvious they're floating him (Ogilvie) as a trial balloon, as a compromise candidate, but that's not much better than Pikarsky," Totten said. He described the situation as political now, adding that he has talked with suburban RTA board members Joseph Tecson and D. Daniel Baldino about the deadlock.

TOTTEN THEORIZES that the city members of the RTA board are hoping for a swing to Pikarsky if they hold out long enough, because of pressure by sub-

To make furnace repairs

Centex says sit tight; village says don't wait

by JERRY THOMAS

Elk Grove Village and Centex Homes Corp. officials differed Monday over how urgent it is for residents to make repairs on their defective furnaces.

However, both agreed that when residents make the necessary repairs, they should retain defective parts so that they can recoup a portion of repair bills.

Village officials are warning residents that delays in repairing the defective furnaces, which could exist in more than 1,700 homes, could be dangerous. The village is urging the repairs be made as soon as possible.

The builder, however, is telling residents to wait for its announcement of a testing program and claims the defective heating systems are not dangerous.

"WE HAVE RECEIVED only verbal assurances from Centex Homes Corp. that it will make a block-by-block inspection of all affected homes as soon as a test is devised to determine which furnaces are defective," said Village Pres. Charles Zettek.

The builder agreed last month to share a portion of the costs involved in repairing the furnaces. Centex is to pay a portion of the estimated $85 installation costs and arrange for free replacement parts.

The company is working with furnace authorities to devise a test to determine which furnaces are defective.

Tom Loftus, Centex vice president in charge of construction, urged residents to "sit tight and wait. We don't want residents panicking; we have been assured any possible furnace defects are not dangerous," he said.

LOFTUS ADDED that as soon as Centex is ready to begin its testing and corrections, residents would be notified.

"In the meantime we are urging agencies who are working with us to design the test to hurry and residents to sit tight," he said.

Loftus said the firm has not as yet sent written confirmation of its agreement to village officials, but "we certainly intend to honor the agreement. We've just been busy trying to find a solution to the problem," he said.

Loftus' advice to residents who don't want to wait for the Centex inspection, is to save defective parts when repairs are made.

ZETTEK SAID HE believes Centex is working as quickly as it can to begin a correction program.

"However I think it's best if residents who know they have a defective furnace to get it repaired immediately, any way they can," said Zettek.

"We are anxiously waiting for written confirmation that the builder intends to honor his verbal commitments," said Zettek. "But, we don't recommend residents wait around for their furnaces to be repaired," he added.

"I can understand that it takes time for an extensive correction program like this to get moving, but I don't want people waiting or taking a chance with defective furnaces. Get them fixed; keep the defective parts as proof of the defect and we will see to it that the builder honors his promise to share costs," said Zettek.

Loss of charter threatened

Female Kiwanian thrilled by support of local club

Mary Clark, the only woman member of the Elk Grove Kiwanis, said Monday she is delighted with the chapter's decision to fight orders from the international organization to ban women from the Kiwanis.

Miss Clark, administrative librarian of the Elk Grove Village Public Library, said she was gratified by the majority vote Saturday to keep her name on the rolls despite the threat that the local club may lose its charter.

"I think the Kiwanis of Elk Grove has distinguished itself by this action," Miss Clark said. "They've gone with the person instead of the piece of paper and taken the humanistic rather than the legalistic approach."

ONE INTERNATIONAL Kiwanis official, Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, was quoted as saying he did not consider Saturday's vote "final."

Myerson denied making the statement Monday, saying he would not comment on further action that might be taken by Kiwanis International until after a meeting with local Kiwanians scheduled for Saturday.

"After I speak in an official capacity with them (Elk Grove Kiwanis members) and inform them of the rules and regulations, they must operate under, we'll proceed from there," Myerson said.

RICHARD HARRELL, president of the local chapter, would say only that the group had met, rendered its decision on the matter and reported it to the proper authorities.

Miss Clark said she considers the vote final.

"I feel what I heard Saturday is that I am to remain a member and I will remain a member unless the local group changes its mind."

Miss Clark said she has offered to resign, but only at the request of the Elk Grove chapter.

"I feel perhaps Kiwanis International is trying to diminish the strength of local clubs by not including women," she said.

"The local group has said they feel they need women like me and I don't think International can interpret the needs of the community."

Burglary suspects face more charges

Two men, suspects in about 18 burglaries in the Northwest suburbs, have been charged by Schaumburg police in connection with two home burglaries.

Charles N. Hardt, 20, and Robert L. Clark, 21, both of 9250 Noel Dr., near Des Plaines, were named in warrants charging them with two counts of burglary each.

James R. Nardl, 31, Chicago, who was charged by Mount Prospect police last week with possession of stolen property, faces the same charge filed by Schaumburg police.

Hardt and Clark were accused of breaking into two Schaumburg homes during the summer and taking an estimated $1,500 worth of household items, police said. Nardl was charged after police found papers, a passport and canceled checks taken in one of the burglaries, authorities reported.

Last week, Hardt and Clark were charged with the Sept. 25 burglary of an Elk Grove Village home. They are under investigation for about 15 other burglaries reported in Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Streamwood, Elgin and in unincorporated areas.

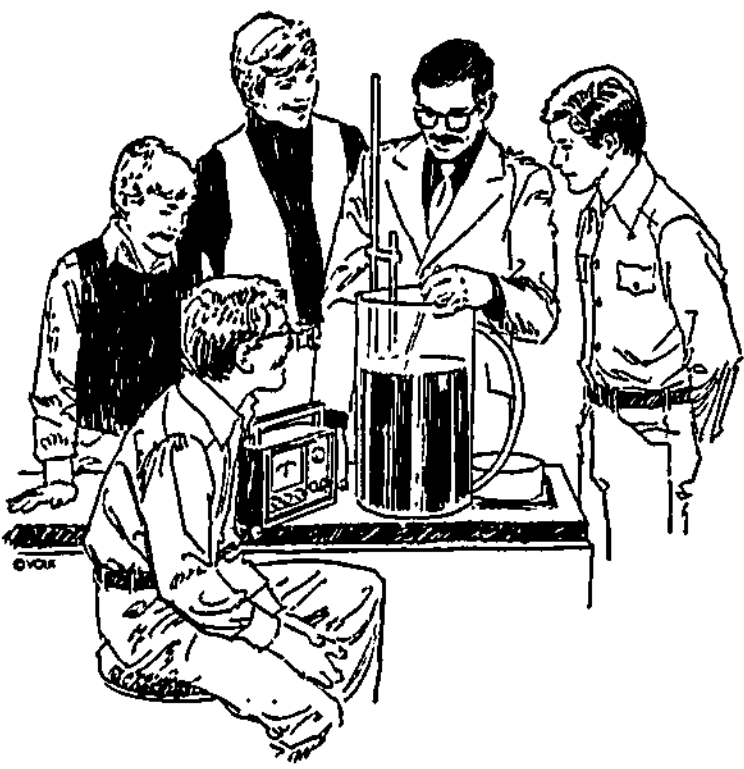

Mount Prospect police said two of 14 families identified stolen property as theirs after police recovered items from the apartment of the accused burglars.

Total bonds for Hardt and Clark have been set at $4,500 each, and $25,000 for Nardl. They are scheduled to appear Nov. 27 in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

High school district report

'Average' teacher holds a master's

The average teacher in High School Dist. 214 is a 33-year-old man, holds a master's degree, has been teaching nine years and makes close to $16,000.

That composite picture is drawn from data in the district's 1974-75 annual personnel report prepared by Robert Cudney, director of instructional staffing.

According to the report, which is used to assess patterns in the makeup of the staff, the district is "growing academically." Last year, statistics showed that 47 district teachers had earned a master's degree plus 60 hours credit toward a doctorate, or had attained a doctorate degree. In 1972-73, only 26 had done so.

This year, 74 of the district's 1,044 teachers, or about 7 per cent, have earned a master's and either have a doctorate or have 60 hours credit toward a doctorate.

Sixty nine per cent of all district teachers have earned a master's degree or more.

ALTHOUGH THE district hired more female than male teachers this year, the number of female resignations increased the percentage of male teachers on the staff from 61 to 63 per cent.

The district received 3,001 applications, up 1,000 from last year, for only 129 jobs.

About one-third of the new staff consists of teachers new to Dist. 214, according to Cudney's report. About 40 per cent of the new staff holds advanced degrees.

Salaries of new teachers jumped from $10,078 last year to $11,685 this year. Cudney's report cited the teacher salary increase and an interest in hiring more experienced teachers as the reason for the increase.

NEW TEACHERS at Wheeling High School average the highest salaries

($12,811), followed by Buffalo Grove ($11,999), Forest View ($11,892), Prospect ($11,570), Rolling Meadows ($11,334), Elk Grove ($10,948), Arlington ($10,818), and Hersey ($10,700).

Of the new staff, 55 graduated from either Northern Illinois University or the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. The rest come from colleges and universities across the country.

The most popular subject area applied for by teachers was English, with 553 applications, and physical education, with 506 applicants.

According to the report, there was an increased number of applicants for every area, with the exception of industrial arts, "which continues to be a very difficult area in which to find quality candidates." Only 57 people applied for industrial arts positions.

Panel examines school district's financial future

A 10-member committee tonight will begin taking an in-depth look at the financial future of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59.

The committee consists of principals, teachers, citizens and members of the board of education.

Board member Albert Domanico, chairman of the committee, said it will present alternatives to the board on how to maintain the district's present level of programming in view of an anticipated 60 per cent drop in state aid in about two years.

The district received about $3.2 million in state aid last year. This year state aid increased to about $4.2 million, but is expected to start decreasing in about two years when the formula for determining state aid is changed.

DIST. 59 is being hit hard financially by the new aid formula, which is based primarily on student enrollment and local tax effort. The district is caught in the bind of having a declining enrollment and a low tax levy, which means less money from the state.

"We won't be making any recommendations, just presenting all the alternatives," said Domanico.

Two district teachers, two principals, two board members and four members of the board and pick committee members.

of the general public will serve on the committee. Domanico and fellow board member Paul Kucharski will represent

Three of four members of the public have been chosen including Joseph Stecker; Chris Glasgow, president of the Bank of Rolling Meadows, and Robert Melroy, a lawyer. Domanico said the fourth member has not been picked, but could be Mead Killon of Elk Grove Village.

KILLON MADE a presentation at the last meeting of the board and said the tax base of the district will eventually be large enough that the district will not have to rely on state aid for operating funds. Killon suggested that the district determine whether it can borrow enough money to make it until that time, about four years from now.

Domanico called Killon's projections a "remarkable job," that "comes very close." However, Domanico added some figures in the projections were incorrect.

The meeting, which will start at 7:30 p.m. in the district administrative center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., will be the first of about four to be held each week at the same time.

Harper board to weigh campus financing plans

Willard A. Brown, a senior vice president of Arthur Rubloff and Co., will discuss Harper College's plans to develop a second campus with the college's board of trustees tonight.

Last month, the Illinois Community College Board cleared the way for Harper to acquire 90 acres for a second campus at the northeast corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Arlington Heights.

The 90 acres would be carved out of a 142-acre section of land owned by the Mayo Foundation of Rochester, Minn.

The meeting with Brown is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in Room A-242B at the college, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine. After the public meeting, the board is scheduled to meet in closed-door session to discuss various means of acquiring the 90-acre site.

It is generally believed that the college will have to pass a referendum to raise the money to buy the land. However, Harper Board Pres. William Kelly told the Arlington Heights Village Board last week that there may be other ways to acquire the property.

IT'S CIRCUS TIME! It may not look like it yet, but the sophomore class at Conant High School is constructing a tissue-paper elephant for their float in the homecoming parade Friday. The homecoming theme this year is "The Greatest Show on Earth." The parade begins at 2:30 p.m. Friday, followed by a carnival at night, football game Saturday and homecoming dance Saturday night. The theme of the dance is "Under the Big Top."

Parks seek aid for bike-safety plan

Elk Grove Park District officials tonight will seek help from the Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors in implementing a three-phase program to promote bicycle safety.

Several members of the park board and Jack Claes, director of parks and recreation, will discuss the program with township officials at a meeting at 8 p.m. at the township hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The program is the result of research on bike-related problems in the area that was compiled by the park district over the past several months with a $1,000 grant from the township.

Claes said park officials will explain the program to the township board for the first time tonight and attempt to interest the board in cooperating to put it into effect.

"WE'RE NOT necessarily going to ask them to finance the program, but we will ask them to participate in implementing it in some way," he said.

The program calls first for using the state school superintendent's bicycle safety lessons designed to be included in any general school curriculum in kindergarten through eighth grade.

The plan also suggests providing training for children in proper bike riding, possibly using a portable course with road signs and other traffic hazards to simulate riding conditions.

Also suggested in the second stage of the program is a system for the inspection and licensing of bicycles and a bicycle court.

THE THIRD PHASE involves construction of a permanent training facility where a full-time coordinator would be available to teach children to ride bikes safely.

Many local agencies have already expressed support for an area bike-safety program such as the plan recommended by the park district, including the Elk Grove Police Dept., Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, the Dist. 59 School Community Council and Schwinn Sales Midwest Inc.

Elk Grove Village Pres. Charles Zettek

also has said he favors implementing a program to make children who ride bikes more safety conscious.

Daley injects Chicago power politics into deadlock over chairman

by STEVE FORSYTH

A power play engineered by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is reaching into the suburbs in an effort to have CTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky named head of the Regional Transportation Authority.

Daley's office reportedly is making phone calls to suburban mayors asking them to pressure suburban members of the RTA board into a quick decision on the chairman, theoretically resulting in selection of Pikarsky.

The move drew the wrath Monday of State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and four other suburban state legislators, who called for Pikarsky to withdraw his name from consideration for the chairmanship because he is causing a deadlock on the RTA board.

At least one suburban mayor, Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, has heard from Chicago Deputy Mayor Kenneth Sain with a pitch for Pikarsky. Behrel has supported Pikarsky and is considering cooperating with the city to get buses to Des Plaines. Behrel agreed he would probably support Pikarsky, but said he has also been contacted by Barney Cunningham, transportation consultant and former mayor of Park Forest, who also is interested in the post.

TOTTEN, WHO WAS opposed to formation of the RTA last March, said the four city members of the RTA board are committed to Pikarsky, and are causing a deadlock. He also said other good candidates have withdrawn for political reasons, because of Pikarsky's eligibility.

"Why is it so important to the mayor that he have Pikarsky on the RTA? You know what he is going to do to the suburbs," Totten said. "Pikarsky doesn't even know where Schaumburg Township is."

The issue has been further clouded by recent suggestions that former Gov.

Richard Ogilvie would be a good compromise candidate. The four suburban board members are believed to prefer former American Airlines president George A. Warde.

"It's obvious they're floating him (Ogilvie) as a trial balloon, as a compromise candidate, but that's not much better than Pikarsky," Totten said. He described the situation as political now, adding that he has talked with suburban RTA board members Joseph Tecson and D. Daniel Baldino about the deadlock.

Residents told to learn costs before annex

Homeowners in south-central Schaumburg Township were advised Monday night to learn the costs of road and utility improvements before proceeding with plans to seek annexation to the Village of Schaumburg.

Trustee Herbert Aligner, chairman of the development committee, told a small group of homeowners from the area southeast of Schaumburg that they should consult Village Engineer Joe Zgonina about costs in making the roads meet village standards and potential future costs for sewer and water connections.

The homeowners, led by Ivo Mersmann, 1512 S. Greenview Ct., appeared before the development committee to learn how to proceed with incorporation of the area south of the Meadow Knolls subdivision and bounded by Larson Lane, Devon Avenue and Roselle, Plum Grove and Nerge roads.

A GROUP OF INTERESTED homeowners had circulated petitions in the area, and of the 265 residences, 165 were in favor of entering village jurisdiction.

Mersmann said the two primary reasons for seeking incorporation were improved sanitary sewers and police protection. The area is served by wells and septic tanks and protected by Sheriff's police.

Aligner said the streets in the Sunset Hills, Concord Terrace, Larson Lane and Devon Avenue areas were narrow and probably would have to be widened. An immediate problem might be reshaping of drainage ditches.

The trustee said a special assessment will probably be made for sewers, water service and street lights. He said sidewalks probably would not be required to retain "a country-style atmosphere" like that in nearby Meadow Knolls.

"Obviously, I can see where there are advantages for you to annex, but there are little real advantages to the Village of Schaumburg to annex the land," Aligner said, noting there would be little revenue coming from the area as compared to expenditures for various services.

HE NOTED MOST of the area has been developed and there would be little revenue from building permits. Aligner added that there are few commercial spots in the area and there would be little sales tax revenue.

Aligner recommended that after the homeowners consult Zgonina, they meet to reestablish their position and that all residents meet with the village engineer to learn of potential costs.

The matter would then come to the development committee, and it would make a recommendation to the village board. If the board approves the annexation, petitions then can be circulated and presented to a Circuit Court judge, who would call for a referendum.

Aligner said he recalled a similar movement about eight years ago where plans for incorporation were rejected.

Walt Jezlor, 521 E. Monterey Ave., said the Sunset Hills residents at that time felt they were being pressured into consenting to annexation.

In Schaumburg's Dunbar Lakes

Bad luck strikes family again

by TONI GINETTI

Luck hasn't been on the side of Mr. and Mrs. J. Boyce in their new Dunbar Lakes townhouse in Schaumburg.

First it was the furnace system found leaking fumes into their month-old home. After four unsuccessful attempts at repairs, workmen finally corrected the system.

Monday, however, more bad luck struck as Boyce rolled up $800 worth of three-day-old carpeting in his basement, ruined after rain water backed up from a clogged sump pump in the complex into his basement.

THE PUMP FAILED to operate when mud clogged the system which allows water to drain to a retention lake in the complex. Rain water from the window well and gutters around the building went into the Boyce basement.

The water backup caused by sump-pump failure also flooded the basement of Jerome P. Cielak, also two doors away.

"All the carpet padding is ruined," Boyce said after workmen hired by the Dunbar Corp. cleaned his basement Monday afternoon. A frustrated Boyce had refused to let the men in until then.

"They said they would clean it, but Mr. Chapman (Allan Chapman, vice president of Dunbar) said their insurance doesn't cover this."

BOYCE SAID HE called the company to assist him late Sunday when the flooding began. His calls, including one to the fire department which also contacted Dunbar, were answered only by the promise that workmen would be out in the morning because nothing could be done on a Sunday evening.

Chapman said Boyce called too late to have anything done.

Boyce's neighbor, Jerry Bowmer, contacted the company at about 10:30 p.m. Sunday when water began seeping into his living room from around a picture window and workmen sealed the leaks around the window that night, Chapman said.

Boyce said he began calling at 10 p.m. Chapman said calls from Boyce did not come until 1 a.m.

Bowmer, however, Monday praised the builders for repairing his leaks, saying a workman was out within 20 minutes of his call.

"We weren't badly flooded," he said. "By 8:30 or 9 a.m. (Monday) they were out and caulked all the leaks. In every new complex there will be problems. (Continued on Page 5)

6 policemen to get fire training

SIX OF Schaumburg's finest policemen will soon receive special training from Battalion Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson which will enable them to assist the fire department as evidence technicians.

Expected to result in closer cooperation between the fire and police departments, the program is being designed to provide fire information to policemen already versed in special investigative work. It is expected to improve methods of discovering the cause of fires and to also result in dissemination of preventive tips.

Ohlson, who has directed park aquatics programs since the district was founded, does not plan to return to Schaumburg pools next summer due to the press of his work as football coach at West Leyden High School. Park officials say they plan to replace him soon with a full-time aquatics director.

High school remodel, swim pools, tax rate

School bond vote concerns residents

by KATHERINE BOYCE
The $22-million building referendum in High School Dist. 211 has avoided any organized opposition so far but some residents are expressing concern about the vote Saturday.

Their concern centers on three issues: reconstruction of Palatine High School is not included in the package; the need for swimming pools in the district's high schools; and the contention that the tax rate of the district will not be raised by the building program.

The $22-million bond referendum Saturday will finance a sixth high school and additions to four high schools in the district. About $6.5 million will go to the sixth high school which is scheduled to open in 1977 north of the Winston Park subdivision of Palatine.

ANOTHER $4.3 million of the referendum bonds will finance an addition for Schaumburg High School which would include a swimming pool, auditorium, classrooms for music and vocational education and more cafeteria space. The capacity of the building would be increased from about 2,100 students to 3,000.

The remaining bonds would finance auditoriums for Fremd and Conant High Schools, swimming pools for Fremd, Conant, and Hoffman Estates High Schools, minor remodeling for Fremd and a $400,000 warehouse for the district.

School officials have emphasized that the tax rate of the district will remain the same or go down slightly if the referendum is passed. But one voter in Palatine whose children attended Palatine High School, said he doesn't believe it.

"They're hanging their hat on growth in the area," said the voter. Due to inflation, developers have geared down their building plans," he said. "I can't believe the tax rate won't increase."

Robert Creek, president of the Dist. 211 board said the district will be able to keep the tax rate down because assessed valuation of property in the district is expected to increase in the next few years. Building projects in both Palatine and Schaumburg Townships are already under way and they will boost the district's tax revenue.

THE REFERENDUM will be put to the voters in one package on the ballot Saturday. Voters will not be able to vote yes on some parts of the referendum and no on other parts.

The League of Women Voters of Palatine has taken issue with the board for putting all the building projects in one package. Although the league has endorsed the referendum and has no formal opposition, League Pres. Jean Tindall said some members are concerned that the voters will not be able to vote against swimming pools.

Creek said the board feels all the building projects are needed in the district. The goal of the referendum is to equalize the high school facilities so each school has a pool, auditorium and adequate classroom space.

THE BOARD "probably could have made 13 separate propositions out of this," said Creek, but "what if the electorate agreed to 12 and one school was left out?"

Creek said he knows some people consider pools a luxury item but "in the judgment of the board and the physical education people and in the judgment of students, swimming pools provide a balanced educational program."

The league also criticized the board for not cooperating with local park districts for funding the pools and sharing their use.

"WE COULDN'T HAVE two elective boards, with different tax bases, and different jurisdictions trying to run the same facility on the same property," said Creek. A school pool is "a year round indoor swimming pool for instruction and competitions," said Creek, while a park district pool is mainly for "social recreation."

Burglary suspects face more charges

Two men, suspects in about 18 burglaries in the Northwest suburbs, have been charged by Schaumburg police in connection with two home burglaries.

Charles N. Hardt, 20, and Robert L. Clark, 21, both of 9250 Noel Dr., near Des Plaines, were named in warrants charging them with two counts of burglary each.

James R. Nardi, 31, Chicago, who was charged by Mount Prospect police last week with possession of stolen property, faces the same charge filed by Schaumburg police.

Hardt and Clark were accused of breaking into two Schaumburg homes during the summer and taking an estimated $1,500 worth of household items, police said. Nardi was charged after police found papers, a passport and cancelled checks taken in one of the burglaries, authorities reported.

Last week, Hardt and Clark were charged with the Sept. 25 burglary of an Elk Grove Village home. They are under investigation for about 15 other burglaries reported in Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Streamwood, Elgin and in unincorporated areas.

Mount Prospect police said two of 14 families identified stolen property as theirs after police recovered items from the apartment of the accused burglars.

Total bonds for Hardt and Clark have been set at $4,500 each, and $25,000 for Nardi. They are scheduled to appear Nov. 27 in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

Dunbar's been pretty good to me."

"The problem was limited to just one building," Chapman said. "The problem was the mud. We're not running away from our problems. We're not trying to run away from our obligations."

CHAPMAN AND Herbert Emmerman, director of public relations for the company, said the mud clogging would not likely happen again once sod is laid at the complex in several weeks. Chapman added, however, a backup system may be installed with the existing sump pump "as a temporary safeguard."

He said, however, that if a power failure should ever result during a storm, sump pumps would not work and water backups could occur again.

Emmerman added the corporation is also planning to establish an emergency service department at the request of the residents.

"Nobody likes to see anyone suffer," Emmerman said. "I feel bad about Mr. Boyce and I will do my darndest to help him. But this only happened in one building."

Chapman said residents were warned not to make improvements in their basements for at least a year to determine if problems like this existed.

"It's like a car," Emmerman said. "It takes time to find out what's wrong with it."

Boyce said, however, he had planned to finish his basement and wanted to begin work on it. "I didn't buy a $40,000 house with a basement just to have a furnace down there," he said. "They call it Dunbar Lakes but they didn't tell me the lake was going to be in my basement."

"I KNOW WHEN you move into a new place there will be things wrong with it, but not this," the former Carpentersville resident said. "Our whole building was surrounded by water. We just bailed and bailed."

Boyce said he has already taken care of minor repairs like the installation of a lock on his screen door and caulking around corners and windows. A damaged bedroom door and leaking garage have yet to be repaired, he said.

"They advertise this as carefree living," he added, "but I don't think I can afford the maintenance on this maintenance-free place."

Move to elect Pikarsky RTA head draws bitter reaction

Talks are confirmed

Holiday Inn may get Kenroy center hotel

by NANCY COWGER

Negotiations are under way with Holiday Inn officials to operate the proposed 300-room, nine-story hotel to be built next to the Kenroy, Inc.'s Crossroads of Commerce center.

Holiday Inn would run the Crossroads facility in addition to its existing nearby facility at Algonquin Road and Ill. Rte. 33.

Officials of Kenroy Corp., Skokie, declined to say whether Holiday Inn is the potential operator of the new motor hotel, but confirmed negotiations are proceeding with a hotel chain.

Confirmation of discussions came from Lou Beaudry, vice president and general manager for Holiday Inn. "There is no signed documentation to that effect. There is a possibility. We are working on it," said Beaudry. He declined to comment further.

OTHER SOURCES indicated uncertainty over general economic conditions could be the determining factor in Holiday Inn's decision. The decision may be announced in about a month, they indicated.

The existing Holiday Inn provides 108 guest rooms, banquet facilities and meeting rooms, as well as a restaurant and lounge.

Kenroy announced plans for the $20 million Crossroads, office and hotel complex in 1972. The center is to include a 20-story office building, two 10-story buildings, the nine-story hotel, all connected by a two-story rotunda. The first 10-story building now is partially occupied. The complex will cover 19 acres at Algonquin and the Northwest Tollway.

Originally the hotel was to have been operated by the Conrad Hilton chain, Kenroy officials said. But negotiations were interrupted by reports the Hilton chain intended to buy the Arlington Park Towers and O'Hare Towers hotels, both of which are owned and operated by Madison Square Gardens Corp. Although Madison Square Gardens officials denied the newspaper reports, negotiations for the Kenroy property apparently were never resumed with the Hilton chain.

IT IS NOT KNOWN if Holiday Inn would accept the same plan proposed for the Hilton facility. That proposal showed 260 rooms in the nine-story tower, with special guest rooms and suites in a two-story wing.

Also to have been included were an indoor-outdoor swimming pool, recreation area, restaurant and meeting facilities. The hotel was to be similar in appearance to the office buildings, which have bronze and gold-colored reflecting glass windows in concrete construction.

Kenroy obtained zoning and plan approval for the complex in 1972. City aldermen contacted Monday night were uncertain whether Kenroy would have to seek further plan approval for a new construction phase, if it conforms with the 1972 plans. If there is a change in plans, new hearings would be required, the aldermen said.

190 more added to rolls in census report

The official population total for Rolling Meadows grew by another 190 persons this week with receipt of an interim report from the U.S. Census Bureau on the September special census.

A letter from the census bureau placed city population at 19,789. Administrative Assistant Charles Green told members of the city council finance, ordinance and judiciary committee Monday night.

The preliminary census report had listed the city has having 19,598 residents, just 420 more than the 1970 census turned up.

The new figures came in an area-by-area breakdown the city requested to determine whether to seek a recount. But the census bureau did not yet supply a city map showing the locations of the 33 counting districts. Until the map arrives, Green will be unable to verify census figures for specific areas, such as apartment complexes, that should be relatively easy to check.

The new figures bring the city within 214 persons of the number which would require major revisions in city council membership and wards. If 20,000 persons are listed by the time final reports are prepared, the city must, under state law, increase its number of wards from five to seven, and add four more aldermen to the council to represent the two new wards. However, census bureau officials told the city earlier to expect up to 19,000 persons in the final report. The bureau did not anticipate reaching 20,000.

In other business Monday, the committee discussed purchase of additional computer equipment. Rolling Meadows and Moline, Ill., have embarked on a computerization improvement program that would have cost each city $40,000, if they had contracted separately. As a joint venture, it is costing each about $25,000.

For dropouts, underachievers

New program gives teens a second chance to learn

by BOB GALLAS

John, a high school dropout from a broken home, was described by his teachers as a nonattending, nonconforming, unmotivated student with a poor chance for success.

Despite his classical description as an underachiever with a variety of learning problems, John decided to return to school two years after dropping out and was accepted back by High School Dist. 214.

A year later, John was "involved, motivated, making reasonable grades" and even joined the track team en route to graduation.

A few years ago, the story might have been different — John would have been turned away or just "pushed along" to graduation.

TODAY, HOWEVER, dropouts, underachievers and others are receiving special help in a new Dist. 214 program aimed at helping students with learning problems get back into the mainstream.

"It used to be that we'd say, 'We have done everything we can for the student,'" said Richard Stanowski, head of pupil services at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights. "Now we ask, 'Have we done everything we can for the students?'"

The program is called the Individual Resource program and it is being used districtwide after a one-year pilot program at Elk Grove High School.

It provides individualized help for students with poor reading ability, social immaturity, poor motivation, lack of skills in a particular area or any other problem that hinders the student from functioning properly in class.

A forerunner of the program, the Cooperative Work Agreement, offered special classes for underachievers at the freshman and sophomore levels only. The present program has been expanded to accommodate juniors and seniors as well as average students and those with special learning abilities.

"Experience showed us that the old program was good for 50 per cent of the kids, who were in it, but the other 50 per cent still had problems," said David Whiteside, district coordinator of special education services. "Besides, you don't always stimulate and change in two years, when the pattern has been set for 10 years."

THE INDIVIDUAL Resource Program revolves around a "resource center" at every school, staffed with learning disabilities teachers, counselors, teachers with special training in a subject area, and aides.

Students can use the center to study for a test, meet with a teacher or counselor for help, take advantage of study materials or, in some cases, just relax and play a game of table hockey with a fellow student.

INDIVIDUAL HELP is the aim of the Individual Resource program, getting started this year at all High School Dist. 214 schools. Buffalo Grove High School English teacher, Donna

McVey, helps students with their speech class work, with the aid of a tape recorder. The recorder allows the students to hear how they sound and helps improve delivery.

Only Nixon behaved like Nixon does: Jack Anderson

by JOE SWICKARD

Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson told the Illinois Principals Assn. to take two messages back to their students: that the President is the servant and not the master of the people and that "all presidents were not like Richard Nixon."

Anderson, addressing an overflow crowd that spilled into the hallway at the Arlington Park Towers Monday night, said, "President Nixon would have you believe, and his White House put this out, that they (former presidents) behaved the way he did. . . I've known these presidents. . . and only Nixon behaved like Nixon does."

Denouncing comparisons between Nixon and former President Harry Truman, Anderson said Truman would openly "wade into a political fight with both fists. Richard Nixon would wade into a political fight with a lead pipe. There's a difference."

AFTER FIRST excusing himself for sitting during part of his address because of phlebitis, Anderson exhorted the principals: "All presidents were not like Richard Nixon. He was unique. Tell your children that."

The principals greeted the columnist warmly and interrupted his address several times with applause. More than 700 persons filled the hotel's main dining room and lined the walls. The doors were left open for those unable to enter the room because of the crowds.

The evening session of the convention was marked by increased security. U.S. Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., was charged during the afternoon by a demonstrator posing as a reporter.

PRESIDENT Gerald Ford's proposed 5 per cent surtax was labeled by Anderson as "welfare" for large corporations while the poor and aged were eating pet food because of high meat prices.

Citing some oil companies that posted profit increases as high as 150 per cent last year, Anderson blasted Ford's tax incentive program as giving them "a little more dough so they'll drill some more."

High school district report

'Average' teacher holds a master's

The average teacher in High School Dist. 214 is a 33-year-old man, holds a master's degree, has been teaching nine years and makes close to $16,000.

That composite picture is drawn from data in the district's 1974-75 annual personnel report prepared by Robert Cudney, director of instructional staffing.

According to the report, which is used to assess patterns in the makeup of the staff, the district is "growing academically." Last year, statistics showed that 47 district teachers had earned a master's degree plus 60 hours credit toward a doctorate, or had attained a doctorate degree. In 1972-73, only 26 had done so.

This year, 74 of the district's 1,044 teachers, or about 7 per cent, have earned a master's and either have a doctorate or have 60 hours credit toward a doctorate.

Sixty nine per cent of all district teachers have earned a master's degree or more.

ALTHOUGH THE district hired more female than male teachers this year, the number of female resignations increased the percentage of male teachers on the staff from 61 to 63 per cent.

The district received 3,001 applications, up 1,000 from last year, for only 129 jobs.

About one-third of the new staff consists of teachers new to Dist. 214, according to Cudney's report. About 40 per cent of the new staff holds advanced degrees.

Salaries of new teachers jumped from $10,078 last year to $11,695 this year. Cudney's report cited the teacher salary increase and an interest in hiring more experienced teachers as the reason for the increase.

NEW TEACHERS at Wheeling High School average the highest salaries

($12,811), followed by Buffalo Grove ($11,999), Forest View ($11,892), Prospect ($11,570), Rolling Meadows ($11,334), Elk Grove ($10,948), Arlington ($10,818), and Hersey ($10,700).

Of the new staff, 55 graduated from either Northern Illinois University or the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. The rest come from colleges and universities across the country.

The most popular subject area applied for by teachers was English, with 553 applications, and physical education, with 506 applicants.

According to the report, there was an increased number of applicants for every area, with the exception of industrial arts, "which continues to be a very difficult area in which to find quality candidates." Only 57 people applied for industrial arts positions.

School bond vote troubles residents

by KATHERINE DOYCE

The $22-million building referendum in High School Dist. 211 has avoided any organized opposition so far but some residents are expressing concern about the vote Saturday.

Their concern centers on three issues: reconstruction of Palatine High School is not included in the package; the need for swimming pools in the district's high schools; and the contention that the tax rate of the district will not be raised by the building program.

The $22-million bond referendum Saturday will finance a sixth high school and additions to four high schools in the district. About $6.5 million will go to the sixth high school which is scheduled to open in 1977 north of the Winston Park subdivision of Palatine.

ANOTHER $6.5 million of the referendum bonds will finance an addition for Schaumburg High School which would include a swimming pool, auditorium, classrooms for music and vocational education and more cafeteria space. The capacity of the building would be increased from about 2,100 students to 3,000.

The remaining bonds would finance auditoriums for Fremd and Conant High Schools, swimming pools for Fremd, Conant, and Hoffman Estates High Schools, minor remodeling for Fremd and a $480,000 warehouse for the district.

School officials have emphasized that the tax rate of the district will remain the same or go down slightly if the referendum is passed. But one voter in Palatine whose children attended Palatine High School, said he doesn't believe it.

Robert Creek, president of the Dist. 211 board said the district will be able to keep the tax rate down because assessed valuation of property in the district is expected to increase in the next few years. Building projects in both Palatine and Schaumburg Townships are already under way and they will boost the district's tax revenue.

THE REFERENDUM will be put to the voters in one package on the ballot Saturday. Voters will not be able to vote yes on some parts of the referendum and no on other parts.

The League of Women Voters of Palatine has taken issue with the board for putting all the building projects in one package. Although the league has endorsed the referendum and has no formal opposition, League Pres. Jean Tindall said some members are concerned that the voters will not be able to vote against swimming pools.

Creek said the board feels all the building projects are needed in the district. The goal of the referendum is to equalize the high school facilities so each school has a pool, auditorium and adequate classroom space.

THE BOARD "probably could have made 13 separate propositions out of this," said Creek, but "what if the electorate agreed to 12 and one school was left out?"

Creek said he knows some people consider pools a luxury item but "in the judgment of the board and the physical education people and in the judgment of students, swimming pools provide a balanced educational program."

The league also criticized the board for not cooperating with local park districts for funding the pools and sharing their use.

Ronald Helton goes back to court today, after a delay of more than 2½ years, to face charges in the stabbing murder of an Arlington Heights service station manager during a 1969 robbery.

Helton, now 21, was one of several young men charged with the Nov. 11, 1969, stabbing of Fred Tallon at the Arlington Park Shell service station, Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue. The charges against the other men were dropped before Helton's first trial in 1972.

The original trial was stopped by Circuit Court Judge Daniel J. Ryan, who ruled that statements allegedly made by Helton to the Arlington Heights police were inadmissible.

In August, the Illinois Appellate Court overturned Ryan's ruling and opened the way for the new trial.

MELVIN KAMM, Helton's attorney in the case, said he will present several pretrial motions before Circuit Court Judge Jacques Hellingoetter, who will be hearing the case in the Civic Center.

Expected to be a central point in the trial will be several statements given by the defendant to the Arlington Heights police during the 3½ months he was held at the local police station. Helton reportedly made several statements, some of them contradictory, to detectives while he was in custody.

In one statement, Helton reportedly expressed knowledge of the crime, but implicated three other persons as being responsible.

Police said he later called a detective to his cell and confessed to the murder of the 64-year old Tallon. However, he refused to repeat the confession the next day after consulting with a public defender.

Move to elect Pikarsky RTA head draws bitter reaction

Daley injects Chicago power politics into deadlock over chairman

by STEVE FORSYTH

A power play engineered by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is reaching into the suburbs in an effort to have CTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky named head of the Regional Transportation Authority.

Daley's office reportedly is making phone calls to suburban mayors asking them to pressure suburban members of the RTA board into a quick decision on the chairman, theoretically resulting in selection of Pikarsky.

The move drew the wrath Monday of State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and four other suburban state legislators, who called for Pikarsky to withdraw his name from consideration for the chairmanship because he is causing a deadlock on the RTA board.

At least one suburban mayor, Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, has heard from Chicago Deputy Mayor Kenneth Salin with a pitch for Pikarsky. Behrel has supported Pikarsky and is considering cooperating with the city to get buses to Des Plaines. Behrel agreed he would probably support Pikarsky, but said he has also been contacted by Barney Cunningham, transportation consultant and former mayor of Park Forest, who also is interested in the post.

TOTTEN, WHO WAS opposed to formation of the RTA last March, said the four city members of the RTA board are committed to Pikarsky, and are causing a deadlock. He also said other good candidates have withdrawn for political reasons, because of Pikarsky's eligibility.

The issue has been further clouded by recent suggestions that former Gov.

Richard Ogilvie would be a good compromise candidate. The four suburban board members are believed to prefer former American Airlines president George A. Warde.

"It's obvious they're floating him (Ogilvie) as a trial balloon, as a compromise candidate, but that's not much better than Pikarsky," Totten said. He described the situation as political now, adding that he has talked with suburban RTA board members Joseph Tecson and D. Daniel Baldino about the deadlock.

TOTTEN THEORIZES that the city members of the RTA board are hoping for a swing to Pikarsky if they hold out long enough, because of pressure by sub-

Police seek $20,000 grant to prevent crime

The Palatine Police Dept. has applied for a state grant to help finance a village-wide crime prevention program.

The $20,000 grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission would be used to hire two additional police officers working in the area of crime prevention as well as a vehicle, films and printed materials, said David Zack, crime prevention and community relations officer.

Although the department will not know for three to six months about the outcome of the grant, it will continue to develop a number of crime prevention presentations focusing on village crime problems.

Presentations on personal safety, burglaries, and property damage are being developed with the use of films, printed materials and demonstrations. Upon request, the presentations will be made to school students, homeowners' associations and business organizations, Zack said.

"The police department has offered some crime prevention presentations in the past, but nothing as complete and as informational as what we have planned for the future," he said.

PALATINE AND COMMERCIAL burglaries increased 237 per cent in the first six months of this year compared to the first six months of 1973. Three hundred and ninety-three cases of criminal damage to property were reported in the first eight months of this year, compared to the 279 cases reported in the first eight months of 1973, Zack said.

Zack said that burglaries and property damage can be reduced if residents will report crimes when they see them occurring in their neighborhoods, and if residents know how to properly secure their homes and places of employment.

Presentations on self-defense could show women how to defend themselves against attackers by using a ring of keys as a weapon. A presentation on burglary prevention could show residents how to scare away and deter burglars, Police Chief Jerry Bratcher said.

"The most important thing now is that we get residents in Palatine concerned enough about increasing crimes to do something about them in their own way," Bratcher said.

RESIDENTS SHOULD feel "more relaxed about immediately calling police" when they see a crime occurring in their neighborhood, or see "someone suspicious roaming around their neighbors' homes," he said. "This is another means of crime prevention that we must promote in the village."

The police department will gradually begin to offer these crime prevention programs to the public so that "by late next spring, we will have a complete crime prevention program in this village," Bratcher said.

Police have stepped up patrols in several areas in the village "in an attempt to decrease burglaries and property damage where they are reportedly more frequent," Zack said.

"No matter how much patrol we have out there, though, it's still up to the residents and businessmen to help us make this a safer village by learning how to best prevent these crimes from happening. It's something we can all work on together," Zack said.

Resident faces battery charges

A Palatine man was charged with two counts of battery Saturday after he became involved in an altercation with policemen who attempted to break up a domestic quarrel.

Palatine police said Bruce Reed, 24, of 39 N. Wilson St., struck Lynne Hernandez, also of the Wilson address, during an argument. When officers attempted to take Reed in, a scuffle between Reed and patrolman Robert Bailey ensued.

Reed was charged with two counts of battery and released on $1,000 bond. He is scheduled to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court Oct. 31.

JANE JIRGENSON GETS some help from Susan Bleaser and Jim Jirgenson in picking out pumpkins for the Palatine Jaycees' annual pumpkin sale Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Pumpkins will start at 50 cents and will be on sale at Maple Park, K-Mart parking lot and the municipal lot at Palatine Road and Brockway Street. A pumpkin wagon also will be in the Winston Park subdivision.

Volunteers get praise from mayor

Palatine Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones praised the village's volunteer firemen Monday night as "the heart and soul of the fire department."

"The people of Palatine do not have a deficient fire department," Jones told several volunteer firemen angry over comments by Fire Chief Orville Helms. "We have a professional fire department," Jones said. He explained that the only difference between Palatine and other departments is that Palatine's fire-fighters return to other jobs when they are finished fighting fires.

Trustee Bryan P. Coughlin Jr. also praised the volunteers and said a full-time fire department would not change the village's excellent fire rating.

The volunteer firemen and trustees were responding to a Herald article quoting a call by Helms called for full-time staffing of the fire department to eliminate critical delays in responding to weekend fires. This is caused by the need to call both volunteers and full-time firemen into the station to man equipment.

The fire department is now staffed 24 hours a day Monday through Friday, but no one is on duty on weekends. Short-wave radio is used to call volunteer and full-time firemen out for weekend fires.

Palatine and Buffalo Grove are the only Northwest suburban municipalities without full-time fire departments.

Radio-stereo set taken from school

A combination radio-stereo set, valued at $250, was stolen from the Samuel Kirk School, 520 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, last weekend.

A window air-conditioner was removed where burglars entered the building. Police discovered the theft Monday.

Drugs stolen from doctor's office

An undetermined amount of drugs was taken from a Palatine physician's office last weekend.

Dr. Morton H. Friedman, whose office is at 530 E. Northwest Hwy., discovered the loss early Monday. The burglar entered the office through a third floor window.

Nixon a 'unique' president: Jack Anderson

by JOE SWICKARD

Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson told the Illinois Principals Assn. to take two messages back to their students: that the President is the servant and not the master of the people and that "all presidents were not like Richard Nixon."

Anderson, addressing an overflow crowd that spilled into the hallway at the Arlington Park Towers Monday night, said, "President Nixon would have you believe, and his White House put this out, that they (former presidents) behaved the way he did... I've known these presidents... and only Nixon behaved like Nixon does."

Denouncing comparisons between Nixon and former President Harry Truman, Anderson said Truman would openly

"wade into a political fight with both fists. Richard Nixon would wade into a political fight with a lead pipe. There's a difference."

AFTER FIRST excusing himself for sitting during part of his address because of pleuritis, Anderson exhorted the principals: "All presidents were not like Richard Nixon. He was unique. Tell your children that."

The principals greeted the columnist warmly and interrupted his address several times with applause. More than 700 persons filled the hotel's main dining room and lined the walls. The doors were left open for those unable to enter the room because of the crowds.

The evening session of the convention was marked by increased security. U.S.

Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., was charged during the afternoon by a demonstrator posing as a reporter.

Uniformed and plainclothes security personnel guarded all the doors to the dining room and checked delegate credentials before admitting them.

There were no incidents during Anderson's appearance.

PRESIDENT Gerald Ford's proposed 5 per cent surtax was labeled by Anderson as "welfare" for large corporations while the poor and aged were eating pet food because of high meat prices.

Citing some oil companies that posted profit increases as high as 150 per cent last year, Anderson blasted Ford's tax incentive program as giving them "a little more dough so they'll drill some more."

Anderson said after his speech, which was met with a prolonged standing ovation, that the confirmation of Vice President-designate Nelson Rockefeller is "suddenly in trouble." Rockefeller's gifts to public officials and his role in the financing of a derogatory biography of Arthur Goldberg during the 1970 New York governor's race made his confirmation less certain.

A POSTPONEMENT of confirmation until after the upcoming Congressional elections also could spell trouble for the former governor, Anderson said. He speculated that if the Democrats sweep in November, "they just might not confirm."

Anderson said he had always thought of Rockefeller as an "honorable" man, but added, "I have to ask if an honorable man would use his money for a smear book."

If the confirmation ran into serious trouble, Anderson said Rockefeller would be withdrawn. "He (Ford) wouldn't leave him exposed. They have some pretty good counters and if they see the support begin to evaporate he'll pull out," Anderson said.

School bond vote troubles residents

by KATHERINE BOYCE

The $22-million building referendum in High School Dist. 211 has avoided any organized opposition so far but some residents are expressing concern about the vote Saturday.

Their concern centers on three issues: reconstruction of Palatine High School is not included in the package; the need for swimming pools in the district's high schools; and the contention that the tax rate of the district will not be raised by the building program.

The $22-million bond referendum Saturday will finance a sixth high school and additions to four high schools in the district. About $8.5 million will go to the sixth high school which is scheduled to open in 1977 north of the Winston Park subdivision of Palatine.

ANOTHER $6.3 million of the referendum bonds will finance an addition for Schaumburg High School which would include a swimming pool, auditorium, classrooms for music and vocational education and more cafeteria space. The capacity of the building would be increased from about 2,100 students to 3,000.

The remaining bonds would finance auditoriums for Fremd and Conant High Schools, swimming pools for Fremd, Conant, and Hoffman Estates High Schools, minor remodeling for Fremd and a $480,000 warehouse for the district.

School officials have emphasized that the tax rate of the district will remain the same or go down slightly if the referendum is passed. But one voter in Palatine whose children attended Palatine High School, said he doesn't believe it.

"They're hanging their hat on growth in the area," said the voter. Due to inflation, developers have geared down their building plans," he said. "I can't believe the tax rate won't increase."

Robert Creek, president of the Dist. 211 board said the district will be able to keep the tax rate down because assessed valuation of property in the district is expected to increase in the next few years. Building projects in both Palatine and Schaumburg Townships are already under way and they will boost the district's tax revenue.

THE REFERENDUM will be put to the voters in one package on the ballot Saturday. Voters will not be able to vote yes on some parts of the referendum and no on other parts.

The League of Women Voters of Palatine has taken issue with the board for putting all the building projects in one package. Although the league has endorsed the referendum and has no formal opposition, League Pres. Jean Tindall said some members are concerned that the voters will not be able to vote against swimming pools.

Creek said the board feels all the building projects are needed in the district. The goal of the referendum is to equalize the high school facilities so each school has a pool, auditorium and adequate classroom space.

THE BOARD "probably could have made 13 separate propositions out of this," said Creek, but "what if the electorate agreed to 12 and one school was left out?"

Creek said he knows some people consider pools a luxury item but "in the judgment of the board and the physical education people and in the judgment of students, swimming pools provide a balanced educational program."

The league also criticized the board for not cooperating with local park districts for funding the pools and sharing their use.

"WE COULDN'T HAVE two elective boards, with different tax bases, and different jurisdictions trying to run the same facility on the same property," said Creek. A school pool is "a year round indoor swimming pool for instruction and competitions," said Creek, while a park district pool is mainly for "social recreation."

Creek said auditoriums and pools will be used by the community anyway. The auditorium at Hoffman Estates High School has been used often by civic organizations and the village board has even held meetings there.

One school — Palatine High School — has been left out of the discussion of the referendum and the building projects. Palatine was built in 1929 and is the oldest school in the district. It has a capacity of between 1,600 and 1,900 students, is overcrowded, and in need of major repairs. The board has put off a decision on whether to remodel or rebuild Palatine, or scrap the old school.

ARDITH BAUMAN is a parent from Palatine High School and when she goes to the polls Saturday she said she wants to know whether the old school will be kept or discarded. "It seems to me that Palatine High School is part of the district too," she said.

The scrapping of Palatine High School is not a foregone conclusion, said Creek. "It really depends on the growth in the area." In about 18 months the district will have a new report on projected enrollment in the Palatine area and will be able to determine whether the school will be needed and whether it is worth fixing, he said.

Creek stressed that the board must still act on the future of Palatine High School and there is a good chance that the building will be rebuilt because the community has sentiment for the old school.

Creek said he hopes all the projects financed by the referendum will be finished by 1978 and 1979. "We're going to bust our backs to start all the projects at once," he said. Bids may be awarded this March and "We think we can improve the construction schedule," Creek said.

Fire department dance slated Nov. 2

Tickets for the dance, costing $3 per couple, are available at the fire station, 117 W. Slade St., Palatine. Two orchestras will provide music for the dance, and door prizes will be offered.

THE CIRCUS PARADE will begin at 2:30 p.m. at Blackhawk Elementary School, 370 Illinois Blvd., Hoffman Estates, and proceed north on Illinois, east on Arizona, south on Ashland and east on Thacker to Conant, 700 E. Harper board to weigh money plans

Willard A. Brown, a senior vice president of Arthur Rubloff and Co., will discuss Harper College's plans to develop a second campus with the college's board of trustees tonight.

Last month, the Illinois Community College Board cleared the way for Harper to acquire 90 acres for a second campus at the northeast corner of Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Arlington Heights.

The 90 acres would be carved out of a 142-acre section of land owned by the Mayo Foundation of Rochester, Minn.

The meeting with Brown is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in Room A-242B at the college, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine. After the public meeting, the board is scheduled to meet in closed-door session to discuss various means of acquiring the 90-acre site.

It is generally believed that the college will have to pass a referendum to raise the money to buy the land. However,

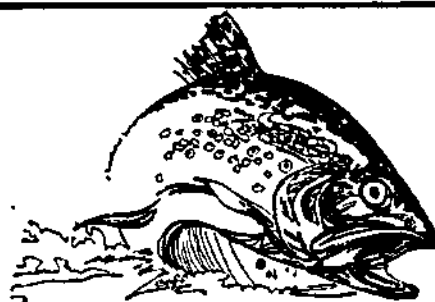

Harper Board Pres. William Kelly told the Arlington Heights Village Board last week that there may be other ways to acquire the property.

Cunningham selected Jaycee of the month

Steve Cunningham, 465 N. Stark Dr., Palatine, was recently named Palatine Jaycee Man of the Month for August.

Cunningham is a supervisor of the bookkeeping department at the Bank and Trust of Arlington Heights. He attended Harper College and is working toward a bachelor's degree in accounting at DePaul University.

He was cited for his general activity and enthusiasm and for being chairman of the tug-of-war contest on July Fourth and chairman of the annual Jaycee raft race picnic.

Move to elect Pikarsky RTA head draws bitter reaction

Daley injects Chicago power politics into deadlock over chairman

by STEVE FORSYTH

A power play engineered by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley is reaching into the suburbs in an effort to have CTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky named head of the Regional Transportation Authority. Daley's office reportedly is making phone calls to suburban mayors asking them to pressure suburban members of the RTA board into a quick decision on the chairman, theoretically resulting in selection of Pikarsky.

The move drew the wrath Monday of State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and four other suburban state legislators, who called for Pikarsky to withdraw his name from consideration for the chairmanship because he is causing a deadlock on the RTA board.

At least one suburban mayor, Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, has heard from Chicago Deputy Mayor Kenneth Sain with a pitch for Pikarsky. Behrel has supported Pikarsky and is considering cooperating with the city to get buses to Des Plaines. Behrel agreed he would probably support Pikarsky, but said he has also been contacted by Barney Cunningham, transportation consultant and former mayor of Park Forest, who also is interested in the post.

TOTTEN, WHO WAS opposed to formation of the RTA last March, said the four city members of the RTA board are committed to Pikarsky, and are causing a deadlock. He also said other good candidates have withdrawn for political reasons, because of Pikarsky's eligibility.

"Why is it so important to the mayor that he have Pikarsky on the RTA? You know what he is going to do to the suburbs," Totten said. "Pikarsky doesn't even know where Schaumburg Township is."

The issue has been further clouded by recent suggestions that former Gov.

Richard Ogilvie would be a good compromise candidate. The four suburban board members are believed to prefer former American Airlines president George A. Warden.

"It's obvious they're floating him (Ogilvie) as a trial balloon, as a compromise candidate, but that's not much better than Pikarsky," Totten said. He described the situation as political now, adding that he has talked with suburban RTA board members Joseph Tecson and D. Daniel Baldino about the deadlock.

Hope for favorable zoning

Kenroy and schools to meet on donation

by LUISA GINETTI

Representatives of Kenroy Inc., will meet with the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education today hoping to agree on a monetary donation to the district for future school development.

Kenroy is seeking to construct a 2,350-unit townhouse and condominium development on the 200-acre Rob Roy Golf Course.

William R. Dillon Jr., assistant to the chairman of the board of Kenroy, said Thursday he will attend the meeting in an attempt to formulate a written agreement with the district. "Hopefully we will have concluded our oral agreement and come to a written agreement," Dillon said.

The school board voted in August to accept a tentative offer of $168,000 from the developer although two school board members voted against the proposal.

KENROY MADE THE offer in an attempt to secure a favorable recommendation for annexation and rezoning of the property from the Mount Prospect Zoning Board of Appeals. However, the board voted 5-2 in August against the proposal.

Kenroy is seeking annexation and rezoning from Mount Prospect to build the development on the golf course site located east of Wheeling Road between Camp McDonald Road and Euclid Avenue in unincorporated Wheeling Township.

The monetary offer to the district is contingent on a favorable annexation and rezoning ruling from the village board, on acquisition of land by the school district from the River Trails Park District and on construction of a new elementary school.

Dillon said Kenroy has an oral agreement with the park district which would allow the district to buy half the Rob Roy property to retain as an 18-hole golf course, provided the district passes a $1.2 million general obligation bond referendum and markets an additional $1 million in revenue bonds.

Dillon said the school district and park district have been meeting to work out a joint usage agreement for land owned by the park district which surrounds the proposed four-acre site of the golf course set aside by the developer for construction of a new school.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS are concerned about the proposed project because it could generate as many as 540 elementary and junior high school students who would attend Dist. 26 schools.

Kenroy officials hope to have written agreements with both the park district and school district secured in time for the village board's special Nov. 12 committee of the whole meeting.

The village board referred the matter to the building committee last month but Trustee Marie L. Caylor, chairman of the committee, said Thursday "It is enough of a major issue that we believe it should be discussed at a special committee of the whole meeting."

Mrs. Caylor would not confirm the date of the meeting but Dillon said he was informed Thursday that it has been set for Nov. 12.

Expect board to set library bond issue

The Mount Prospect Village Board tonight is expected to set the size of a multi-million dollar bond issue to finance the construction of a new public library.

The new library, to be built on the downtown Central School site, is estimated to cost $3.2 million. Mayor Robert D. Teichert, however, said he will urge the board to issue $4 million in bonds so that the village can purchase land in the block east of Central School.

Although he said there is currently no plan for use of the property, Teichert said that the purchase would enable the village to control development of the block, which he said will be part of the downtown area.

Teichert said the village might lease or sell off the property for favorable projects, or use it for municipal-office expansion. He said, however, that any use of the land would depend on the final plans for development of the downtown area.

"THIS IS THE time when you are developing the plan to acquire some property," Teichert said.

The block east of the school, bounded by Central Road on the north, Busse Avenue on the south, Maple Street on the east and Emerson Street on the west, includes about 15 houses and a parking lot for the Mount Prospect State Bank.

There has been no public discussion about the size of the bond issue since Teichert proposed the $4 million sale late last month. At that time, Trustee George Anderson said he favored only a $3 million bond sale. Investment of the bond funds would produce the additional monies needed to finance the library project, he said.

Trustee Kenneth Scholten, chairman of the board's finance committee, said he does not plan to make a recommendation on the size of the bond issue. "I'm still struggling with it," Scholten said.

Teichert said expansion of the bond issue from $3.5 million to $4 million would add only one cent per $100 assessed valuation, according to a tentative bond retirement schedule.

THE BOARD had been scheduled to set a bond figure earlier this month, but the discussion was delayed because of a lengthy board meeting. Teichert said the size of the bond issue must be set this month to comply with a bond schedule that would begin retirement of the bonds with the 1975 tax levy.

The board also is scheduled to consider an ordinance that would establish a special assessment for a $94,443 alley improvement project along east Prospect Avenue and west Northwest Highway.

Burglary suspects face more charges

Two men, suspects in about 18 burglaries in the Northwest suburbs, have been charged by Schaumburg police in connection with two home burglaries.

Charles N. Hardt, 20, and Robert L. Clark, 21, both of 9230 Noel Dr., near Des Plaines, were named in warrants charging them with two counts of burglary each.

James R. Nardi, 31, Chicago, who was charged by Mount Prospect police last week with possession of stolen property, faces the same charge filed by Schaumburg police.

Hardt and Clark were accused of breaking into two Schaumburg homes during the summer and taking an estimated $1,500 worth of household items, police said. Nardi was charged after police found papers, a passport and canceled checks taken in one of the burglaries, authorities reported.

Last week, Hardt and Clark were charged with the Sept. 25 burglary of an Elk Grove Village home. They are under investigation for about 15 other burglaries reported in Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Streamwood, Elgin and in unincorporated areas.

Mount Prospect police said two of 14 families identified stolen property as theirs after police recovered items from the apartment of the accused burglars.

Total bonds for Hardt and Clark have been set at $4,500 each, and $25,000 for Nardi. They are scheduled to appear Nov. 27 in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

Youngest fireman now rides first class to fires

by TOM VON MALDER

As a kid, Randy Cherwin lived three blocks from a fire station and occasionally trailed behind the engines to view a fire.

Now, at 18, he rides to fires first class, as a full-fledged member of the Mount Prospect Fire Dept., the youngest municipal fireman in Illinois.

Cherwin is the first to make the switch from the Mount Prospect Fire Dept.'s pioneer cadet program to full-time fireman. He thinks his two years as a cadet gave him a jump on the other five rookie firemen because he spent 10 days with the firemen, went on calls, sat in the radio room and helped set up equipment.

He also said he feels he is ahead in "book learning."

"THE BOOK WORK will be helpful," Cherwin said, pointing to a several-inch-thick book on fire equipment, methods of fighting fires and safety code rules. "Most new firemen don't get enough time to study. They get the four or five weeks during training, while I've had two years."

Two years ago, in cooperation with 11th School Dist. 214, the Mount Prospect Fire Dept. began a cadet program, the first of its kind in the state. In addition, the department last year saw two state laws, which it lobbied for, passed. The laws make the cadet program a statewide possibility and lowered the required age of firemen to 18, if the prospective fireman has completed a two-year cadet program.

Mount Prospect Fireman Leonard Kaiser, who spent a year drawing up plans for the initial cadet program and fought for the new laws, said he had three goals for the program: to keep students who otherwise might drop out of high school, to create better relationships between teen-agers and firemen and to provide a ready pool of trained firemen.

CHERWIN IS the proof that Kaiser's program and goals were workable and two other former cadets are on eligible lists for area fire departments — another for Mount Prospect and one for Rolling Meadows.

Although Cherwin was not about to drop out of high school two years ago, he said the thought crossed his mind once or twice. "I think the cadet program is good," he said. "It gave me something to work for — not just going to school. It helped me in school; it brightened up school."

One school area in which Cherwin was helped was mathematics. "I never was that good at math," he said, but he had to do some figuring to work out hydraulics problems as a cadet.

Cherwin is probably more typical of the modern fireman. He said he joined the cadet program because it sounded interesting, not because he necessarily wanted to be a fireman. He was not raised in a family of firemen like many of the older generation firemen, although he used to go to fires occasionally when he heard the engines pulling out from the fire station near his house.

Cherwin recommends the program for any high school student who thinks he might become a fireman.

Interest in the cadet program has spread throughout the state with both fire departments and high school systems inquiring about the Mount Prospect program.

Health unit advises against 2 pesticides

The Mount Prospect Health Services Dept. has warned residents to stop using two pesticides, Aldrin and Dieldrin.

Marjorie Boswell, director of health services, said the environmental protection agency has evidence that the pesticides may cause cancer.

Arson suspected in blaze at restaurant

Arson is suspected in Monday's fire at Mr. Edward's Restaurant, 1000 S. Busse Rd., unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

Mount Prospect firemen, who with Elk Grove firemen battled the 4 a.m. blaze, said at least three separate fires were found. Samples taken from the scene have been sent to laboratories for analysis.

Firemen, while not giving a damage total, said damage would be about the same as in a June 25 fire at the restaurant. Damage in that fire was estimated at $25,000.

The June fire was traced to the storage of combustible materials near some infrared lights which had been left on after the restaurant closed the night before. Damage in that fire was in the kitchen area.

Other details of Monday's fire were unavailable, as it still is under investigation.

Burglars net $2,870 in loot

Burglars took more than $2,870 worth of household possessions and cash Monday in three apparently unrelated burglaries in Mount Prospect.

Police said that among the items taken from the home of Candido Vandini, 1629 Greenwood Dr., were $560 worth of jewelry and two shotguns. Among the other $630 worth of stolen items were a typewriter, tape recorder, binoculars, camera and projector.

The burglars forced a basement door between 5 and 7:40 p.m. at the house, police said.

In a second burglary at an 1826 Palm Dr. apartment, burglars took a stereo system and about 100 record albums, with a total value of $1,100, from Dennis McMahon. Police said the burglars entered the apartment through an unlocked living room window between 8:45 and 11:30 a.m.

The third burglary occurred between noon and 5 p.m. at the home of Duane Kingsley, 107 N. Westgate Rd. Police said two axes, $5 in cash, a sledge hammer and several books were taken. The burglars entered the garage and forced their way into the basement, police said.

Prospect Heights man charged with battery

A 23-year-old Prospect Heights man was charged Sunday by Wheeling police with battery and criminal trespass after an incident in a Wheeling woman's apartment.

Arrested was Lee A. Vivirito, 417 Willow Rd., who police said grabbed and slapped Kay Wroblewski, 575 Fairway View Dr., and refused to leave her apartment. The arrest was made at 8:03 p.m.

Police said Vivirito was released on $1,000 bond and is to appear Nov. 19 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Television, stereo taken from apartment

Burglars took a television set, a stereo set and about $8 cash during a break-in at the apartment of Oscar Foster, 838 E. Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect.

Police said the burglary occurred while Foster was on vacation, sometime between Oct. 4 and Sunday. Total value of the missing items as of 7:30 p.m. Sunday, when the burglary was reported, was $350.

Police said the burglar pried open a kitchen door to gain entry.

FOREST VIEW High School's fall play, "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," runs Thursday through Saturday at the school, 2121 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights. Laury Swanson stars as Jean Brodie and Tom Geitsch as one of her male suitors, Lloyd. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. Thursday, 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

The local scene

'Green power' rally

More than 1,000 Girl Scouts, Brownies, Cadettes and Senior Scouts will rally Saturday to celebrate "Green Power."

Beginning with individual troop activities, the "Girl Green Power Is Fun Day" will include a songfest at 2:30 p.m. in the St. Raymond's Church parking lot, 311 S. I-Oka Ave.

At 3:30 p.m., helium-filled balloons will be released by each girl, with the balloons bearing the message "Girl green power is fun."

Service units 610, 641 and 642 of the Mount Prospect Community Assn. will take part in the rally. Over 1,500 girls and leaders will be represented at the event, which is designed to make the public aware of Girl Scout activities.

A glimpse of farm life

Ninety preschoolers from the Prospect Heights Nursery School will see life on the farm Thursday when they visit Green Meadows Farm near Waterford, Wis.

The children will pet and feed farm animals, ride in a hay wagon and bring home their own pumpkin from the farm's pumpkin patch.

The school, which relies on fund-raising for items not covered by tuition, is currently planning its school bazaar, scheduled for Nov. 7 at the Prospect Heights Community Church. The bazaar will include baked goods, a boutique and white elephant items.

Northbrook men arrested for marijuana possession

Wheeling police arrested two Northbrook men for possession of marijuana Sunday.

Arrested in the Sunday incident were Robert C. Kuehne, 20, and John R. Aitken, 17. Both also were charged with transporting open liquor in a vehicle. They were arrested at 12:49 a.m. when police stopped their car at 550 N. McHenry Rd. to check if they were in violation of the village's curfew ordinance.

Bond for both Kuehne and Aitken was set at $1,000 and each is to appear Oct. 29 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

In other drug arrests, James M. Manago, 21, of 850 Old Willow Rd., Prospect Heights, was charged at 12:20 a.m. Saturday with possession of marijuana, after Wheeling police stopped his car for improper display of license plates, police said.

Police stopped Manago's vehicle on Dundee Road near the police station, 255 W. Dundee Rd. His court date and bond were unavailable.

About half hour after Manago's arrest Saturday, police arrested two Mount Prospect teenagers for possession of marijuana, after police stopped their car for having no headlights on.

Both Donald J. Singer, 18, of 11 N. Edward St., and Steven T. Thours, 18, of 506 N. Main St., were released on $1,000 bond and are to appear Oct. 29 in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Official avoids sidewalk policy

Though 100 families must pay for sidewalks, Robert Bishop goes without

by MARILYN McDONALD

While 100 Arlington Heights families have until Oct. 25 to finance sidewalks around their houses, a village official has successfully avoided installing sidewalks in front of his house for 12 years.

The official, Robert Bishop, is a member of the board of local improvements which supervises special assessments for sewer, street and sidewalk improvements in the village.

When Bishop built his home at 1035 S. Chestnut Ave., the village required a deposit for future sidewalk construction. With 240 feet of frontage, Bishop was to have put $360 in escrow for a future sidewalk.

IN AUGUST, 1962, Bishop asked the village board to excuse him from the requirement to deposit the $360. He said that there were only two houses built on his street, and that the street itself had not yet been graded. He said that it was unfair to tie up his money for several years until conditions permitted sidewalk construction.

At the Aug. 20, 1962 village board meeting, the board changed its sidewalk policy so that waiver of escrow funds could be considered "where the street grade has not been established" and "where a lot is being developed singly on an undeveloped street which is not an arterial secondary thoroughfare or collector street and on which no sidewalk decision has been made." Bishop then got his money back.

Bishop still has no sidewalk in front of his home. "I will eventually put them in," he said, adding that the village sidewalk policy is not now being enforced in his neighborhood.

BOLI enforces the 1966 village sidewalk ordinance on an area-by-area basis. Bishop said that his neighborhood is within a half mile of Dunton Elementary School, which means he would have to install a sidewalk under Section Three of the policy.

DAVID PATTERSON, president of BOLI, said that the area in which Bishop lives is now paying for street installation through special assessment. He said that BOLI tries to avoid two large special assessments in one area at the same time.

"At the BOLI meeting (Sept. 26), Mr. Bishop answered from the floor that he is putting in sidewalks by private contractor," said Patterson. "His general area reflects those like Searsdale, Stonegate, and some of the other subdivisions," Patterson added.

Searsdale and Stonegate are two subdivisions which are excluded from the village sidewalk ordinance because they won exemption from the village board in years past.

Residents to get lawyer to fight sidewalk work

Some 60 persons have organized their opposition to the sidewalk installation ordered by the village board of local improvements.

The sidewalk project would force the installation of sidewalks in front of some 100 homes in the village's northeast quadrant, north of Northwest Highway and east of Arlington Heights Road. It requires the homeowners to post a letter of credit in the amount of $9 per linear front foot to cover the cost of sidewalk installation by Oct. 25. If a resident chooses not to post the letter of credit, he will be charged later for the sidewalk installation by special assessment.

AT A PROTEST meeting last week, residents asked Walter Maczka, James Foy, Margery Maconachy and William Gallagher to investigate hiring a lawyer. They hopefully will select a lawyer on Tuesday or Wednesday, Foy said Monday.

Mrs. Maconachy said that one lawyer with whom the four had spoken felt the citizens' group has a good case against the sidewalk policy's enforcement in their area. The group did not wish to say what that case might be, however. "We don't want to fight this thing in the newspaper," said Foy.

When asked about the protest group now forming to block his board's latest enforcement of the sidewalk policy, BOLI Pres. David Patterson said residents have one of two choices: either they can post the letter of credit by Oct. 25 and save on the cost of sidewalk installation, or go through the special assessment process.

In the special assessment process, residents have a chance to take their case to court in a jury trial before the court finally approves the project and sets the special assessment.

ROBERT BISHOP LIVES in this home at 1035 Chestnut Ave., and has avoided installing a sidewalk since 1962. Bishop, a member of the Board of Local Improvements, says he intends to install a walk "eventually." Meanwhile, some 100 homeowners are being asked to arrange sidewalk installation by Oct. 25 or face a costly special assessment under the village's 1966 sidewalk policy.

Nixon 'unique,' says Jack Anderson

by JOE SWICKARD

Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson told the Illinois Principals Assn. to take two messages back to their students: that the President is the servant and not the master of the people and that "all presidents were not like Richard Nixon."

Anderson, addressing an overflow crowd that spilled into the hallway at the Arlington Park Towers Monday night, said, "President Nixon would have you believe, and his White House put this out, that they (former presidents) behaved the way he did . . . I've known these presidents . . . and only Nixon behaved like Nixon does."

Denouncing comparisons between Nixon and former President Harry Truman, Anderson said Truman would openly "wade into a political fight with both fists. Richard Nixon would wade into a political fight with a lead pipe. There's a difference."

AFTER FIRST excusing himself for sitting during part of his address because of phlebitis, Anderson exhorted the principals: "All presidents were not like Richard Nixon. He was unique. Tell your children that."

The principals greeted the columnist warmly and interrupted his address several times with applause. More than 700 persons filled the hotel's main dining room and lined the walls. The doors were left open for those unable to enter the room because of the crowds.

The evening session of the convention was marked by increased security. U.S. Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., was charged during the afternoon by a demonstrator posing as a reporter.

Uniformed and plainclothes security personnel guarded all the doors to the dining room and checked delegate credentials before admitting them.

There were no incidents during Anderson's appearance.

PRESIDENT Gerald Ford's proposed 5 per cent surtax was labeled by Anderson as "welfare" for large corporations while the poor and aged were eating pot food because of high meat prices.

Citing some oil companies that posted profit increases as high as 150 per cent last year, Anderson blasted Ford's tax incentive program as giving them "a little more dough so they'll drill some more."

Oil billionaires J. Paul Getty and H. L. Hunt also came under his guns as "patriots of the soapbox." He said they "wrap themselves in the flag. They can afford to because we paid for it."

Anderson said after his speech, which was met with a prolonged standing ovation, that the confirmation of Vice President-designate Nelson Rockefeller is "suddenly in trouble." Rockefeller's gifts to public officials and his role in the financing of a derogatory biography of Arthur Goldberg during the 1970 New York governor's race made his confirmation less certain.

A POSTPONEMENT of confirmation until after the upcoming Congressional elections also could spell trouble for the former governor, Anderson said. He speculated that if the Democrats sweep in November, "they just might not confirm."

Anderson said he had always thought of Rockefeller as an "honorable" man, but added, "I have to ask if an honorable man would use his money for a smear book."

If the confirmation ran into serious trouble, Anderson said Rockefeller would be withdrawn. "He (Ford) wouldn't leave him exposed. They have some pretty good counters and if they see the support begin to evaporate he'll pull out," Anderson said.

High school district report

'Average' teacher holds a master's

The average teacher in High School Dist. 214 is a 33-year-old man, holds a master's degree, has been teaching nine years and makes close to $16,000.

That composite picture is drawn from data in the district's 1974-75 annual personnel report prepared by Robert Cudney, director of instructional staffing.

According to the report, which is used to assess patterns in the makeup of the staff, the district is "growing academically." Last year, statistics showed that 47 district teachers had earned a master's degree plus 60 hours credit toward a doctorate, or had attained a doctorate degree. In 1972-73, only 26 had done so.

This year, 74 of the district's 1,044 teachers, or about 7 per cent, have earned a master's and either have a doctorate or have 60 hours credit toward a doctorate.

Sixty nine per cent of all district teachers have earned a master's degree or more.

ALTHOUGH THE district hired more female than male teachers this year, the number of female resignations increased the percentage of male teachers on the staff from 61 to 63 per cent.

The district received 3,001 applications, up 1,000 from last year, for only 129 jobs.

About one-third of the new staff consists of teachers new to Dist. 214, according to Cudney's report. About 40 per cent of the new staff holds advanced degrees.

Salaries of new teachers jumped from $10,078 last year to $11,695 this year. Cudney's report cited the teacher salary increase and an interest in hiring more experienced teachers as the reason for the increase.

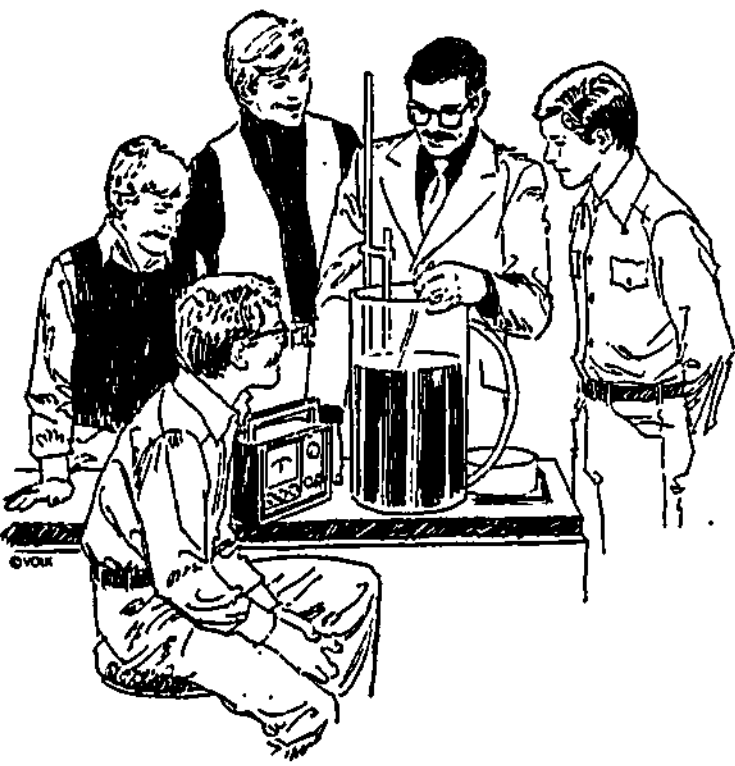

NEW TEACHERS at Wheeling High School average the highest salaries

($12,811), followed by Buffalo Grove ($11,988), Forest View ($11,892), Prospect ($11,570), Rolling Meadows ($11,334), Elk Grove ($10,948), Arlington ($10,818), and Hersey ($10,700).

Of the new staff, 55 graduated from either Northern Illinois University or the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. The rest come from colleges and universities across the country.

The most popular subject area applied for by teachers was English, with 553 applications, and physical education, with 506 applicants.

According to the report, there was an increased number of applicants for every area, with the exception of industrial arts, "which continues to be a very difficult area in which to find quality candidates." Only 57 people applied for industrial arts positions.

For dropouts, underachievers

New program gives teens a second chance to learn

by BOB GALLAS

John, a high school dropout from a broken home, was described by his teachers as a nonattending, nonconforming, unmotivated student with a poor chance for success.

Despite his classical description as an underachiever with a variety of learning problems, John decided to return to school two years after dropping out and was accepted back by High School Dist. 214.

A year later, John was "involved, motivated, making reasonable grades" and even joined the track team en route to graduation.

A few years ago, the story might have been different — John would have been turned away or just "pushed along" to graduation.

TODAY, HOWEVER, dropouts, underachievers and others are receiving special help in a new Dist. 214 program aimed at helping students with learning problems get back into the mainstream.

"It used to be that we'd say, 'We have done everything we can for the student,'" said Richard Stanowski, head of pupil services at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights. "Now we ask, 'Have we done everything we can for the students?'"

The program is called the Individual Resource program and it is being used districtwide after a one-year pilot program at Elk Grove High School.

It provides individualized help for students with poor reading ability, social immaturity, poor motivation, lack of skills in a particular area or any other problem that hinders the student from functioning properly in class.

STUDENTS ARE given special help on a variety of levels, starting during their free time and progressing to permanent removal from class to work with a specialist.

A forerunner of the program, the Cooperative Work Agreement, offered special classes for underachievers at the freshman and sophomore levels only. The present program has been expanded to accommodate juniors and seniors as well as average students and those with special learning abilities.

"Experience showed us that the old program was good for 50 per cent of the kids, who were in it, but the other 50 per cent still had problems," said David Whiteside, district coordinator of special education services. "Besides, you don't always stimulate and change in two years, when the pattern has been set for 10 years."

THE INDIVIDUAL Resource Program revolves around a "resource center" at every school, staffed with learning disabilities teachers, counselors, teachers with special training in a subject area, and aides.

Students can use the center to study for a test, meet with a teacher or counselor for help, take advantage of study materials or, in some cases, just relax and play a game of table hockey with a fellow student.

In addition to academic help, the program also tries to help the student with nonacademic problems.

INDIVIDUAL HELP is the aim of the Individual Resource program, getting started this year at all High School Dist. 214 schools. Buffalo Grove High School English teacher, Donna

McVey, helps students with their speech class work, with the aid of a tape recorder. The recorder allows the students to hear how they sound and helps improve delivery.

For example, a girl with a poor self-image at Forest View might be put to work in a nursery school next door to the school. Through a cooperative agreement, the girl becomes a nursery school teacher.

"The little kids begin to rely on her and look up to her," said Stanowski. "It helps her image and builds her ego."

ALTHOUGH there are about 1,100 students in the Individual Resource Program this year, other students sometimes feel the advantage of the resource center.

At Forest View, aides are available to any classroom teachers who might need help at a particular time, for example a biology teacher might need help during a lab project.

"They (aides) are on loan like a library book," Stanowski said.

While the program has basic guidelines, schools individualize their own program to fit the needs of their students.

At Hersey High School, special classes are set up in the basic subjects required of freshmen such as biology, math and English in addition to the option classes in home economics, woods, metals and graphics.

A student with a problem in only one subject area will enroll only in one class, while another student may be involved in four of the classes.

DAVID TOEPKE, Individual Resources Program coordinator at Hersey said he doesn't feel the classes attach any stigma to the students.

"I think the general student population doesn't even know the IR program exists," said Toepke. "Besides, it's a funny thing. Students seem to know where they are regardless of whether you group them or not."

The Hersey program also involves the parents in weekly discussion seminars, mainly dealing with family communications.

Perhaps the most important part of the program is "the teachers who volunteer for it," according to Thomas Hansen, head of pupil services at Elk Grove High School. As with the students who make up the program, participation also is voluntary on the part of the teachers.

While administrators say it's too early to tell about the success of the program, some success is obvious: the resource room is a beehive of activity for students who usually have one thing in common — an interest in what they're doing.

Schools seek funds from developers

The controversy surrounding Arlington Heights' land dedication ordinance continued Monday night with a request by Arlington Heights Dist. 25 that the ordinance be broadened to take in money for capital improvements such as school additions.

William Beck, president of the board of education, told a meeting of the village board's legal committee that he thought the village had "lost the intent" of its land-dedication ordinance which, he said, was intended to provide "an umbrella under which all public bodies could get some benefit from the impact of a major development in the community."

Arlington Heights' ordinance requires either land dedications or cash in lieu of land from builders. The donations are to be used for school sites, parks and other public purposes.

"Dist 25, by good luck, good management or good ordinance, is in an enviable position landwise," Beck said. "But we also feel that the impact of a development upon capital assets is very much within the original intent of this ordinance."

AS PRESENTLY written, the ordinance can be used only for land acquisition and thereby "shuts out" Dist. 25 from getting money from builders for a school addition which might be needed because of a residential development, Beck said.

"Under the present land dedication ordinance, we have no option to present any case in the foreseeable future. The ordinance was good when it was written, but no longer fills the needs of the schools," he said.

Kay Muller, vice president of the Arlington Heights Park District, who has charged that the park district has been shortchanged in the distribution of builder cash donations, said it was "ironic" that the park district, which has given up park sites in favor of necessary school sites, should now be faced with a new claim to land dedication money.

Mrs. Muller maintains that the village has not followed its ordinance recently because it has not publicly established the need for land dedication, and has allowed too much of the negotiation with builders to be done by Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

"I HAVE A FEAR that if we open the door of using this ordinance for other purposes, once again the park district is going to be in the back seat," Mrs. Muller said. The park district has requested $120,000 from the village to buy several park sites.

Mrs. Muller said she felt that "now it's our turn" to use the land dedication money which, since 1957, has totaled $357,000.

"We're really defining a problem and hoping you will consider it," explained Dist. 25 Supt. Donald V. Strong. "We'd like to see if there are ways that all public bodies can take care of certain impacts that are directly and uniquely attributable to land development."

The legal committee, whose chairman, Trustee James T. Ryan, was absent, took no action on the land dedication issue. Committee members asked both park and school district representatives to fur-

by JOE SWICKARD

Ronald Helton goes back to court today, after a delay of more than 2 1/2 years, to face charges in the stabbing murder of an Arlington Heights service station manager during a 1969 robbery.

Helton, now 21, was one of several young men charged with the Nov. 11, 1969, stabbing of Fred Tallon at the Arlington Park Shell service station, Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue. The charges against the other men were dropped before Helton's first trial in 1972.

The original trial was stopped by Circuit Court Judge Daniel J. Ryan, who ruled that statements allegedly made by Helton to the Arlington Heights police were inadmissible.

In August, the Illinois Appellate Court overturned Ryan's ruling and opened the way for the new trial.

MELVIN KAMM, Helton's attorney in the case, said he will present several pretrial motions before Circuit Court Judge Jacques Hellingcoetter, who will be hearing the case in the Civic Center.
